VOL. XXII.—NO. [illegible]679. PORTLAND, OREGON, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1882. PRICE—TEN CENTS.

GENERAL NEWS.

Grover Cleveland Nominated by New York Democrats.

TRAIN TELESCOPED IN A NEW YORK CITY TUNNEL.

Several Persons Killed and nearly 20 Wounded—Indian Difficulties in the Creek Nation—Steamer Lost on Lake Erie.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Lester B. Faulkner was selected for permanent chairman of the democratic convention. The committee on resolutions, 18 to 9, favor free canals. The committee on contested seats heard a limited argument by representatives of various organizations of the city of New York, and also [illegible] to allow disagreeing bodies to arrange a basis for the settlement of differences.

At 1:30 A. M. the committee on contested seats finished their labor and decided to report to the convention to admit the New York contesting delegation on the following basis: Forty-eight of Tammany and twenty-four of Irving hall.

President Galloway, of the Manhattan elevated railroad, is in town credited with being in the interest of Congressman Flower for governor.

The committee on contested seats adopted the following:

Resolved, That this committee recognize the county democracy as the regular Democratic organization [illegible] city of New York.

[illegible] delegates filed into the hall and were greeted with cheers and also a few hisses. Convention called to order and the chairman of committee on contested seats reported the committee recognized the county democracy as the regular [illegible] from New York city, but with a view to [illegible] success of the party at the polls and for the purpose of securing entire harmony they decided that the New York representation be divided as follows: County democracy 36, members of Tammany 21, Irving hall 14. The report was unanimously adopted [illegible] uproarious applause. Committee on permanent organization reported for permanent chairman [illegible] B. Faulkner.

[illegible] address of President Faulkner, Gen. Prior presented the platform, which arraigns the republican majority in congress for failing to reduce taxation; [illegible] in favor of such tariff as shall best serve the interests of all classes, condemns the river and harbor bill, declares that in nominating the secretary of the treasury for governor they see the alarming [illegible] of government control of elections, [illegible] the republican administration responsible for [illegible] wrongs upon our foreign born citizens; [illegible] republican party in the state refused [illegible] its governor because he dared use the [illegible] against the demands of the dangerous [illegible] of the state, favors local self government, [illegible] favors the passage of general [illegible] for security against frauds at elections; [illegible] monopolies and corporations should [illegible] subject to laws of the state, and corporate [illegible] should pay a fair proportion of the public [illegible]; supports constitutional amendments in favor of free canals, reaffirms the policy of the democ[illegible] labor be held free, condemns convict labor; [illegible] labor shall have the same right as [illegible] combine for its own protection, declares [illegible] state and national, should be re[illegible] condition it was during the primitive [illegible] republic.

[illegible] speech moved the platform be re[illegible] to the committee for insertion of a [illegible] against enormous grants of public lands [illegible] corporations. Adopted. A list of delegates [illegible] from New York city were added. [illegible] Pryor of the committee on resolutions [illegible] the following additional plank in the [illegible] moved its incorporation:

[illegible] arraign the republican party for the [illegible] of public lands to railway jobbers, [illegible] of the people of their rights [illegible] and demand as far as possible these [illegible] forfeited and reserved for occupation by actual settlers.

[illegible] nomination for governor. [illegible] Corning, Homer A. Nelson, [illegible] R. P. Flower, Gen. H. W. Slocum, [illegible] Perry Belmont were presented. [illegible] Slocum 98, Cleveland 66, Flower 97, [illegible] Corning 35, Belmont 12, Campbell 37, [illegible] Necessary to a choice, 193. [illegible] Tammany divided, as follows: [illegible] and Corning, six each; Cleveland [illegible] and John Kelly voted for Corning. [illegible] ballot Corning dropped, Slocum 123, [illegible] Flower 123, Nelson 15, Belmont 16, [illegible] Robinson 10. No choice. Kelly voted [illegible]

[illegible] then commenced for Cleveland. The [illegible] delegation voted for him and a [illegible] excitement followed. Half [illegible] on their feet shouting and yelling. [illegible] county delegation tried to stem the [illegible] their names called again. As [illegible] had more than enough votes to [illegible] the pandemonium seemed turned [illegible] was entirely beyond the [illegible] Grover Cleveland was finally [illegible] of the third ballot.

[illegible] Resolutions.

[illegible] 22.—At an adjourned session of the [illegible] convention this morning the following were reported and adopted:

[illegible] civil service is absolutely necessary; [illegible] merit should alone be the criterion [illegible] and tenure of office are de[illegible] spoils system is condemned, and as[illegible] servants for political purposes [illegible] further demand penal legislation [illegible] evil; that the remnant of public [illegible] exclusively for actual settlers [illegible] the sinking of artesian wells [illegible] reservoirs in portions of the [illegible] appropriations of congress; [illegible] of silver, condemn [illegible] oppressive taxation as results [illegible] of a surplus of over a [illegible] dollars; that the present [illegible] oppressive, unduly favoring [illegible] localities; holding that the [illegible] should be for revenue and [illegible] of any class of persons, [illegible] manufacturers; condemn the cow[illegible] action of congress in at[illegible] the performance of their duty [illegible] to a packed and itinerant con[illegible]

[illegible] Railroad Accident.

[illegible] 21.—A terrible accident occurred [illegible] in the Fourth avenue tunnel, at 86th [illegible] The New Haven train, standing on [illegible] track, was run into by the Harlem [illegible] demolished. As near as [illegible] four persons were killed and [illegible] not yet ascertained. It is [illegible] was the result of gross [illegible] locomotive on the main line of [illegible] with an accident on 128d [illegible] the track and in consequence the [illegible] on the south bound [illegible] several of the injured have [illegible] killed was Miss Eugenie [illegible] teacher in the normal [illegible] was the engineer of the [illegible] of Morrisania, another [illegible] two Misses Bennett [illegible] severely.

[illegible] Account.

[illegible] Mr. Elkington, mining editor [illegible] World, says: "I was sitting [illegible] which is next to the [illegible] 86th street station in the [illegible] one jump from the train. I [illegible] saw the train standing in [illegible] instantly a crash came. No [illegible] in the rear train. The most [illegible] prevailed among passengers, and [illegible] steam, the screams of women, [illegible] the tunnel, the scene was frightful. [illegible] and saw a lady lying among the [illegible] taken out and I found her left [illegible] the knee. One man was severely [illegible] I should suppose about seven [illegible] from 10 to 14 were hurt, but [illegible] for their homes. One of the in[illegible] stopped and the passengers were [illegible] brought to the Grand Central [illegible] total darkness in the tunnel it [illegible] for me to get a clear idea of what [illegible] escaping steam soon filled the tunnel [illegible] the darkness only added to the [illegible] Shrieks and screams were [illegible] the tunnel, and the space was so [illegible] could be done in the confusion to [illegible] the disaster. The engineer of the [illegible] been placed under arrest on charge [illegible] but an investigation will [illegible] prove whether he received the signal [illegible] which he supposed clear was occupied.

[illegible] firemen set to work and rescued [illegible] women; one of the latter soon af[illegible] Mrs. Eugenie Aubert, the teacher al[illegible] was found in a trench alongside the [illegible] until after extracted. The [illegible] known is: Sherman Adamson [illegible] Frederick Stein of New Rochelle, [illegible] schoolteacher of New York; [illegible] and Eugenie Aubert. The injured [illegible] Meeks of New Jersey; T. [illegible] H. C. Haughton of New York, [illegible] Hedden, engineer, John Boggs of [illegible] M. Stain of New Rochelle, G. N. [illegible] Mount Vernon, Lizzie Commerford [illegible] both legs cut off, Wm. Howe [illegible] and Alonzo Bray of Mount Vernon [illegible] of J. K. Matthews and Bernard [illegible] New Rochelle.

A Cowboy Duel.

[illegible] Sept. 21.—Particulars of a twelve-sided [illegible] cowboys has just reached here. [illegible] a herd of 3000 cattle and John [illegible] a herd of 4000, were driving to [illegible] Arizona east. North of Trinidad, on [illegible] the two bands were separated, Howard [illegible] Fe trail to Kansas City and [illegible] north to Denver. On the route [illegible] had been made and Howard [illegible] his stock out, but was unwilling to [illegible] it was finally agreed to settle [illegible] a fight between six picked men of each [illegible] twelve men ranged themselves [illegible] the sides, fifty feet apart, and at a [illegible] employee the fight began. At the [illegible] Keeley's party were instantly killed, [illegible] shot through the breast, one [illegible] fell with a ball through the head, [illegible] of the same party shot through the [illegible] Howard party with the exception of their employer, [illegible] Keeley then rode up to Howard and proposed to fight it out. Howard declined, saying he understood the matter was settled according to the terms of the [illegible] made beforehand. This settled the matter and an equitable exchange of the cattle was then made, the dead buried by the other men of both herds and the drovers and those in charge separated for different routes.

Indian Troubles.

CALDWELL, Texas, Sept. 21.—A private letter from Cheyenne Agency, of the 13th inst., states that [illegible], a half-breed, was shot and killed by an Indian about 65 miles south of the agency. Scouts are now out after the murderers. The letter also states on the 8th, four Creek Indians reported at Cheyenne Agency and informed Agent J. D. Miles they were being pursued by rebel Creeks, and asked protection. It appears a party of Creeks opposed the result of the late election in that nation, and they inaugurated a reign of terror and are killing or driving out all who sustained the governor elected.

A Beef Carrying Company.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—A company to be known as the Texas Continental Transportation Company, to engage in carrying dressed beef in refrigerator cars from the beef-raising country, was formed here today. Operations are to be confined to the Huntington system of railroads, with the Chesapeake and Ohio as its eastern outlet and the Southern Pacific as the western. The said company has the backing of the cattle raisers and shippers of the southwest.

Odd Fellow's Decisions.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 22.—The sovereign of the grand lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows this morning went to work on the report on appeals. The appeal of Samuel Baker vs. the Grand Lodge of Nevada was sustained; also the appeal of D. W. Welty vs. the Grand Lodge of California. This appeal has been before the sovereign grand lodge for four years and is known among Odd Fellows as the Robinson case.

An Editor Killed.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 22.—In Hot Springs this morning, Charles Matthews, editor of the Hornet, was shot four times and killed in an affray with Col. S. W. Fordyce, vice-president of the St. Louis and Texas Narrow Gauge railway, and Col. Rugg, one of the proprietors of the Arlington hotel. The shooting grew out of a bitter newspaper controversy. It is not known whether Fordyce or Rugg fired the shots.

An Insane Freak.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 22.—A demented daughter of James Cleveland poisoned the whole family of six by putting strychnine in their coffee today. Mr. Cleveland has died and one daughter is in a precarious condition. The poisoner has wandered off and it is supposed committed suicide.

New York Greenbackers.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The county committee of the national greenback-labor party selected John W. Franklyn, president of the bricklayers' union, for mayor.

Walsh Hanged.

GALWAY, Sept. 22.—Patrick Walsh was hanged today for the murder of Martin Lyden. Walsh protested his innocence and maintained that a witness swore falsely.

Amendment Lost.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21.—At the session of the grand lodge, I. O. O. F., the amendment to admit to membership civilized Indians, in Indian territory, was lost.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

CAIRO, Sept. 21.—Arabi Pasha and his accomplices, military and civil, will be tried by court martial.

Officials and troops of Soudan and upper Egypt will proffer loyalty to the khedive.

Thirty-six prisoners of war have escaped from the citadel by ropes.

Abdalla Pasha's negotiations relative to surrender of Damietta are regarded as intended only to gain time. It is reported he is strengthening his fortifications. It is said again Abdalla is willing to surrender but the black troops resist. It is believed Egyptians are entrenched behind a fort on the east side of the river.

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 22.—All rebel officers below the rank of colonel confined at Ramleh have been released and the fifty remaining prisoners brought here.

An expedition has started to occupy Damietta. No resistance is expected.

The Big Ones must be Punished.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Alexandria dispatches to the Daily News say: Isolated punishment among the lower classes will produce no effect until Arabi Pasha and other leading rebels are publicly disposed of.

A member of Gen. Wolseley's staff states that the subject of an early return to England of a portion of the troops has not yet even been discussed.

The Khedive's Choice.

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 22.—Abderahman Roushdi Bey, a Maltese renegade and minister of finance in Arabi's last ministry, has been appointed by the khedive president of the commission to prosecute instigators of the outrages in June.

Earthworks Abandoned.

PORT SAID, Sept. 22.—English have abandoned the earthworks they erected and marines have re-embarked.

Russian Officers' Duel.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Herald's St. Petersburg: Lieut. Stalehine was killed yesterday in a duel with pistols at 15 paces, by Captain Prince Skakowski. Three officers and Count Belchubi, son of the historian of the Turco-Russian war, lately deceased, were witnesses. The meeting took place at Pargulow, a few miles from St. Petersburg. Skakowski fell at the first shot, slightly wounded in the side, but the ball which he fired in falling mortally wounded Stalehine. The cause of the duel was a long standing enmity which had lately broken out afresh.

The Czar's Coronation.

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—Nothing is known here regarding the preparation for coronation of the czar. It is expected the customary period will elapse for preparations before the ceremony takes place, also that the usual invitations will be issued when the date is decided.

The Tyrol Floods.

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—The towns of Innichen, Sillian, Toblach and Welsberg are entirely destroyed, and houses falling hourly. The emperor has ordered four detachments of pontooners and engineers to the distressed province to repair damaged railways. Several parts of the province have not been in running order for a month.

The Bomb Throwers.

TRIESTE, Sept. 21.—Overdank and twenty young men, mostly of a party of deserters from the army, drew lots to see who would throw bombs at Emperor Francis Joseph. During his reception here Overdank attempted suicide. A Russian named Azkief prepared the bombs. The police of Vienna are making domiciliary visits.

Stanley's Explorations.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—Stanley penetrated 300 miles beyond Vev, and established fifteen trading stations between Vevi and Koki, Africa.

At Sydney, Australia.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The exhibition building at Sydney, New South Wales, was totally destroyed by fire, with all contents, recently.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Secretary Folger's Nomination.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Secretary Folger's nomination was generally expected here, where there are such unlimited facts in the power of the administration, that the event has given rise to little comment. His subordinates are glad to have his wishes gratified, and sorry to have him leave the department. He has been popular for the very reason that the administration has been anxious to unload him. He would not use his position for political purposes and that is exactly what the politician, who is now dominant, insists that the secretary of the treasury shall do. Not much is known here about Mr. Hillhouse, but Richard Crowley would not be over sensitive about using the treasury as an election sewing machine, and Assistant Secretary New looks on government affairs from a political standpoint. Politicians point out that if none other exists besides this weakness in the direction of honesty and reform on the secretary's part, it is also sure that he shows his lack of experience as an executive officer. He works slowly and insists on going into details and understanding everything that subordinates usually attend to, and has at the same time overworked himself and retarded the business of the department. He is still indisposed and will not be at the treasury for several days. He will probably resign soon after formally accepting the nomination. He will not wait for the result at the polls. Roscoe Conkling is under discussion here always, and it is now suggested that Mr. New may succeed Secretary Folger and a New York member of the cabinet be secured by sending Mr. Frelinghuysen to London and giving the state department to Mr. Conkling, who has gratified his own spite by annihilating the "Lizard on the Hill" and obliged the president by getting a nomination for Secretary Folger. Bishop's nomination over Crapo, in Massachusetts, is looked on here as another victory for the administration and the knell of Senator Hoar.

John C. New's Candidacy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Secretary Folger said this morning he did not know when he should resign his office as the secretary of the Treasury, but thought it would be after the New York elections. The friends of Assistant Secretary John C. New state positively he will be Folger's successor, and state that when he assumed the assistant secretaryship he was informed of the probability of Folger becoming Governor of New York, and was assured of promotion to his place in the treasury.

Surgeon Murray's Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The following has been received: Brownsville, Texas, Sept. 21. To Surgeon General Hamilton: The inspector reports the Arroyo Cordon perfect and no sickness outside or near. It can prevent spread of fever if sustained against legal quibblers. A river guard is necessary and full authority essential. Eighteen cases and one death are reported the past 24 hours.

(Signed) MURRAY, Surgeon.

The Next Trials.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Herald's Washington: Dorsey's friends say tonight Ben Butler has been retained to defend Dorsey in the next star route trial. Senator Jones, of Nevada, expressed the opinion today that at the next trial the conspirators would be convicted. He said the administration is thoroughly in earnest, and will not relax its determination to convict.

YELLOW FEVER.

PENSACOLA, Sept. 21.—Thirty new cases of yellow fever today, and two deaths. Total cases to date, 344, deaths 41.

Will Sustain Dr. Murray.

AUSTIN, Sept. 21.—In reply to Governor [illegible] telegram ordering Dr. Murray to be sustained [illegible] Hamden answered: "Will obey instructions. Have placed myself and deputies at the [illegible]" Wolff.

Mr. B. P. Owen, city editor of the Richmond [illegible], was cured by an application of St. Jacobs Oil of severe pains.

THE STATE FAIR.

Full Report of Thursday's and Friday's Races.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AND AN INTERESTING EXHIBITION.

A Hotly Contested Race with Six Heats—Thoughts on Fairs in General—Minor Notes, etc.

[illegible]

The [illegible] day of the fair saw an immense crowd wending its way to the grounds from all sources, and the clouds of dust that welled up from every passing vehicle became a sort of volatile cloud that infiltrated every nostril and shed a coat of dust upon each and every coat or hat. About the stables and cattle pens it had already become so deep that ladies began to complain of it and did not like to visit the cattle or horses at their domiciles, hence they loitered about the pavilion and talked over farm talk and fashion talk till it was time to go out upon the race track. The dust at the latter place was worse than we ever remember to have seen it at either Walla Walla or Boise City, and those who sat down in the grand stand rose up landed proprietors. Of course, all these evils cannot be overcome, but many of them might be obviated by judicious sprinkling of the grounds during the early morning. Considerable fault is found with the way that the small trains of cars that run from the Chemeketa hotel to the fair grounds are delayed on the switches. The train which left the depot on Wednesday at noon was delayed twenty minutes, and the 1 P. M. train nearly half an hour.

GENERAL APATHY

On the part of the producers is that the society has most to contend against. People have lost that interest in fairs which prevailed some years ago; and while it still continues to be the great annual holiday for the laboring element, that works for thirty dollars per month the year round, yet it does not interest the land-owners and cattle-growers as it used to do. Again, the expense of attending these fairs takes a good deal of money out of a man's pocket, if he has it there, which is not always the case. If a man lives sixty miles from here he has a railroad freight bill to pay on his stock, even knowing that he is going to have his money rebated. And if he lives off the railroads he must spend three or four days in driving his stock along the hot and dusty roads, at the same time taking his attention off his farm and being compelled to trust his farm to men who are not always the most conscientious about attending to business in their employer's absence. The fine weather of the past three days has been a God-send to the managers of the fair and has brought crowds from every direction. But the complaint is general that the racing is not as good as usual and that in all the other features of the fair there is no novelty whatever.

THE 2:30 CLASS TROT

On Wednesday attracted a large number of people, as Milton Medium and Dexter were advertised to trot, with the old Walla Walla horse, Goldfoil thrown in to make up a field. Dexter opened as favorite in the pools, with Medium selling pretty close to him, and Goldfoil bringing enough to pay the auctioneer's commission. Goldfoil had the inside track but was easily deprived of it by Dexter, who went off like a locomotive and came in ahead in 2:31½, Goldfoil being last. On complaint being made that Medium had run a large portion of the distance, the judges very properly set him back for it and gave the second place to Goldfoil. The time of the heat was thought to be very slow and complaints were made to the judges that Harry Smiley was not trying to win the race with Medium, so the judges unseated him at the request of several gentlemen who had backed the horse heavily, and put up Geo. W. Lefby to drive the race out. At the conclusion of the second heat, time 2:31, that gentleman made up his mind that he could do no better than Smiley and requested the judges to reinstate the latter as in his belief the horse could not win the race. As they were scoring for

THE THIRD HEAT,

A circumstance occurred which came near upsetting all the "best laid plans of mice and men." The horses came to the wire so unevenly that Mr. Galloway, the presiding judge, did not tap the bell, but some man in the crowd cried out "Go," and off went all three horses at their best pace. Dexter led all the way to the half-mile with Medium lapping him, but a Marshal rode up the track and intercepted them by telling them it was no heat. The horses jogged slowly to the stand and were sponged off for five minutes, when another start was had and this time in earnest. Dexter led to the quarter in a good square trot, with Medium a length behind him, but it was evident the latter was getting a better horse the longer he trotted. Opposite the half-mile pole Dexter was leading by a length, but Medium now began to move up and got lapped on him and in this position they came to the head of the stretch when Dexter broke and Medium took the lead which he maintained to the wire amid the deafening yells of those who had bought him for $4 in pools of $18. He crossed the line three lengths in advance of the big horse, who pulled up very short and came back to the stand with signs of bellows to mend.

A GENERAL RUSH

Was now made for the pool-stand by those who had laid the long odds on Dexter, in the forlorn hope of hedging out of their financial difficulties, as it was apparent that nothing but a miracle could stop Milton from winning the race if he was sent for it. Young Smiley assured his friends he was anxious to win it and if the horse was able to do it he would certainly give him all the show in the world to bag the purse. This gave general satisfaction to the friends of the little horse and everything looked favorable for a contest of five heats for Goldfoil had been distanced in the third heat, which we forgot to mention. This left the race down to a single-handed contest between the two kings and after one or two preliminary efforts they were got off with Medium a neck in front of Dexter. The little horse indulged in his usual skips all through the first half-mile and then he got in front and came home at a pretty square gait, crossing the score about two lengths in front of Dexter. On dismounting from his sulky, Mizner charged Smiley with having run his horse all the way up the back stretch while Dexter was trotting steadily and this matter was at once

TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

By the judges, who held a protracted consultation over it and called in the patrol judges as evidence in the case. One of these officials testified that, as the horses were nearing the half-mile pole, he heard the drivers talking the matter over in a very friendly style, and one of them proposed to let the other have the inside, and all such nice little arrangements of which the spectators and the pool-buyers in the home-stretch were most profoundly ignorant. The judges decided among themselves that this was prima facie evidence of a collusion between the drivers, and that the contest was not being trotted in good faith. They therefore declared the race off and ordered all the pool money to be refunded to those who bought on either horse, which was a godsend to those who had put in their stray dollars on Goldfoil, distanced in the preceding heat. The probabilities are that had Mizner made no complaint against Smiley, the latter would have got the heat and then Mizner would have got either first or second money. As it was, he got nothing for his day's work, and both he and Smiley were

RULED OFF FROM DRIVING

Or handling any horses on the fair grounds during the rest of the week. The race was declared void, and the purse reverted to the society. The drivers are indignant at this, and say the whole thing was trumped up to save the $700 purse, of which Medium would have gotten $500 and Dexter $200 if the race had been won by the little horse, as it appeared likely he would do. One thing is certain, that the judges gave a heat to Milton Medium in which he ran a great deal more and trotted a great less than he did in the heat for which he was declared out of the race and his driver ruled off the track. But it was one of those things that had to come, for there has been a good deal of "funny business" between these two horses in the season, with the exception of their trot at East Portland in July, when Medium beat Dexter, as we believe he can do whenever he is in good faith. There is a growing impression among [illegible] race tracks that a bona fide race between these horses is an impossibility as long as they are in their present hands; and there is no telling where this thing may stop, for by the way the legislature

IS NOW IN SESSION,

And the chances are that some reformer may take hold of the proposition and amend the gambling act in such a way as to prevent and punish pool-selling on races. Should such a law be passed, there is not a running horse in the state worth $200, and not a trotter worth more than twice that sum. The parties who have been carrying on the "skin game" on the Oregon tracks have been sufficiently warned through these columns that they were "killing the goose that lays the golden eggs" and asking them to stop in time before they destroyed the value of all racing stock in the state. As a rule this class of men are too greedy and, in their anxiety to win money, they give "the worst of it" to men who are not as great yahoos as they imagine, and who will take some means of punishing these wholesale jobbers. It is true that the sporting fraternity generally back the favorites, and therefore deserve protection so far as fairness will admit; but it must also be held in remembrance that the small buyers have their rights and they should be given a fair show. It does not do to send the grangers home afoot, licking the splinters off the railroad ties and cussing race tracks.

THE [illegible] ELEMENT

Is represented mainly by men who work hard for small wages and who have cheap pools at faro. If they lose their money fairly they come again, but if they are jobbed out of it, they take the walk and stay away from the track. As for the sporting element, they are bound to [illegible] the way they get their living and they will not quit. But the small bettors are the real [illegible] without them there will [illegible] We hope we have made this thing plain enough [illegible]

[illegible]

As are to be [illegible] in California and Kentucky, [illegible] at Sacramento, Stockton or San Francisco, but you find at least two of [illegible] a participation in the sport of the day. And their presence is a sufficient protection for bettors on races. If the racing in Oregon falls into the hands of [illegible] who train horses learn a little sense in regard to keeping up racing, the men who buy pools on the races at our state and county fairs will do well to remember the legal maxim of caveat emptor. It is dangerous business, the way that things are going at present. Much of the decline of interest in fairs is owing to the circumstances recited above. In contrast to the "devil take the hindmost" policy of some of these parties, it is pleasant to see the example of

JAY BEACH OF LAKE COUNTY,

Who traveled four hundred odd miles to The Dalles and thence by steamer, to attend this circuit of fairs and races. Mr. Beach could have won more money than he has won, but he preferred reputation as his reward, and it will not be long before he has money and reputation both. He has shown himself a plucky and enterprising stock breeder, and his motto has been "First, if with honor." By the time he gets back to his home in southern Oregon, there will not be much left him of the few little purses he has won here and at Hillsboro. But he will be remembered as a man whose horses have always trotted square races, and when beaten were beaten generally for lack of condition. When he won, no other horse was pulled to let him win. He took an expensive and comparatively profitless journey into the heart of Oregon to exhibit his stock, in the hope of booking good sales hereafter. Some day or other this meritorious line of conduct will redound to his pecuniary profit, and our earnest hope is that the day is not far off. The only pity is there are not more like him in these respects.

FOURTH DAY.

The race of seven-eighths of a mile for all ages, which was to have been run on Wednesday afternoon and was postponed on account of the protracted race between Dexter and Milton Medium, was run at eleven o'clock on Thursday morning, and was the most exciting contest that has been seen in years. The pooling showed the following exhibit:

Billy Coombs	20	15	15
Connor	5	7	7
Field	10	9	8
	35	31	31

The field was a strong one, consisting of Caddie R., Jim Merritt and Blue Mountain Belle. They got off at the third attempt, Caddie R. getting off ahead followed by Blue Mountain Belle and Merritt, the favorite being almost left at the post. There was a furious rush between the leaders, Merritt getting on even terms with Belle at the half mile. Coombs and Connor came up with a terrible burst of speed, but it was useless, the distance being too short for either of them. Merritt got his nose in front of the brown mare before reaching the straight run for home; but the race was over before either Connor or Coombs could reach him. He won by a short neck from Connor, Coombs being third, Caddie R. fourth and Blue Mountain Belle absolutely last. Time 1:33. The crowd then adjourned for dinner, and there never was a more sultry noon in July. The first race after noon was

Fourth Day.

If the reporter of THE OREGONIAN had been told that he would see on Thursday afternoon the severest and most stubbornly contested race ever trotted in Oregon by four colts, three of which were bred in the Willamette valley and one in Southern Oregon, he would have smiled a smile of incredulity, and passed on his way through the surging sea of human life that ebbed and flowed through the gateways of the state fair grounds. But such was destined to be the case and the actual winner was for a long time thought of as a mere outsider in the race. Those who have seen the old time trotting mare Molly Welch, will recognize some of her game and nutty look about the head and neck of her daughter, Jane L., bred at the Reedville Stock Farm, by S. G. Reed, the well known millionaire, and educated to her paces by Luther S. Lindsay, superintendent of that breeding establishment. Opposed to her were a son of Rockwood, a daughter of the dead hero Kisber, and a son of Altamont, whose daughter Bonita so electrified the trotting connoisseurs on Tuesday. So it might be truthfully said that as far as it was possible to obtain representatives old enough to participate, every noted sire in Oregon was represented in the entries except Dead Shot, Anvil, Alwood and Challenger. These have no colts foaled in Oregon earlier than 1880.

Jane L. is not large of her age, but very shapely and is a rich brown in color with a tan nose. She has a good length of body and goes along with her legs well under her and her gait is free from anything like a hitch. In addition to a pure gait she possesses another great qualification which is a perfect temper. Her sire, Hambletonian Mambrino, was by M[illegible], son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian; and his dam was Ocean by Border Chief, a son of the great Roman-nosed black horse from whose loins came Lady Thorn, Ericsson and a host of others of undying fame. Lindsay drove her himself.

Zilophone is a blood bay stallion bred by Jay Beach, of Lake county, who has driven him to some sort of rig ever since he was a yearling. He could easily beat three minutes at two years old and, had he met with no mishap, would be now exploring the forties in all probability. He goes a trifle high-headed and is a square-gaited fellow, with more knee action than his half sister, Bonita. When he arrived at Hillsboro in June he was the picture of health, but got taken so sick that they gave him up for gone. But he rallied through it and on the 26th day of August he got his first jog for five weeks. Since then he has improved rapidly and trotted a good game race, though he got the worst of it twice in the race, either of which was enough to annihilate all his chances for a victory. He should be wintered hereabouts and will be one of the dangerous crew next year. He was driven by his owner.

Black Hawk is the property of L. P. W. Quimby, and was sired by Rockwood, a stallion brought from New York by Redmond & Smith at the same time they brought out Kisber. He is a coal black in color and built upon a fine model for a weight puller. Not one horse in twenty of his age shows such proportionate growth and if you were to cover up his head and neck, he would readily pass for a five-year-old. He has broad hips, deep shoulders, a full chest and a barrel that ribs handsomely. The name is somewhat a hackneyed one, but he gets it from his resemblance to Long Island Black Hawk, the first horse that ever beat 2:40 with wagon and driver weighing 400 pounds. He was driven by O. Smiley.

May Wintler is a very blood-like bay filly owned by Michael Wintler of Vancouver, who has leased her racing qualities from her owner. She was rather backward during the spring season, but had so rapidly improved during the past three weeks that Harry Smiley, who drove her, backed her for every dollar he had in his pocket and felt confident of success. She is by Kisber, and greatly resembles the dead hero in her marks and color. If she is not forced to death by hothouse training, she will be a good mare about four years hence, as well as a very beautiful one. She was backed for an enormous pot of money, and it was deemed almost a certainty for her. On the toss for places, the pole fell to Zilophone, Black Hawk next, May Wintler third, and Jane L. on the outside. The pools sold at $25 for May Wintler, $16 for Zilophone, $12 for Black Hawk, and $[illegible] for Jane L. "Old Lute" had no confidence in his mare's ability to win the race and said that if Beach's colt did not win it, he was mistaken. Mr. Beach was in equal doubt about his colt's ability to trot a bruising race. George Lefby was confident that if Black Hawk and Zilophone could get a heat apiece, the Reed filly would be troublesome.

At the start for the first heat the horses were all strung out like a funeral procession and President Galloway tapped the bell to the unspeakable consternation of Mr. Beach, whose colt was just about pulled into a walk behind the rest. Old man Smiley pushed to the front with the big black colt and while he was passing the half-mile pole, Zilophone was a distance behind. Finally Beach brought him up with a rush and, instead of merely playing to save his distance, gave him a smart taste of the whip and passed both May Wintler and Jane L. Time, 2:51½. Black Hawk won the heat quite cleverly and was at once placed on even terms with May Wintler in the betting.

The start for the second heat was a good one, although it was plain that the Smileys were careful to pocket Zilophone and prevent him from getting a show for a heat except to drive all around them. The old man pushed to the front with Black Hawk in the boldest style, with Zilophone close to his wheel, but the latter broke at the quarter and fell behind May Wintler. Young Smiley now brought his filly up in fine style and soon collared Black Hawk, whom he deprived of the lead as they straightened up for home. Down the stretch the bay mare trotted as steady as a [illegible] and won the heat by two lengths from Zilophone, who came with a rush when too late. Time, 2:56. Jane L. dropped cleverly within her distance and they got a capital scrape out of her. Pools now sold, May Wintler $25, Zilophone $15, Black Hawk $10 and Jane L. $1. In one pool she actually sold for $3 in $46. Black Hawk was very tired and it was very evident he would not be able to come again.

As they got off for the third heat Jane L. was leading and Black Hawk, who was next, crossed right in front of Zilophone in such a way as to throw him entirely out of his stride and wipe out all his chances for the heat. Lindsay got his mare well in front and she went along about her business like an old woman going to market. She was six lengths ahead at the half mile and four at the head of the homestretch, when everybody called out "Look at Zilophone," and the splendid colt began to close the gap at a terrible rate of speed. He was coming on her with a rush at the draw gate, but it was too fast for him and he broke up. Deafening yells greeted the mare as the little brown mare went under the wire in 2:55½, Zilophone second, May Wintler third and Black Hawk last. Mr. Beach protested [illegible] foul driving, which was a plain case [illegible] judges [illegible] that Black Hawk was not guilty and allowed him to continue in the race. Pools now sold with Jane L. as favorite at $30, May Wintler second at $20 and Zilophone and Black Hawk together.

The fourth heat was delayed by the most vexatious scoring ever seen, which lasted nearly an hour, but finally the horses were sent off, with Zilophone on even terms with May Wintler for the first time in the race. Beach took his colt to the front and led to the quarter, where he broke, but [illegible]

[illegible] and was thundering along on her neck, when he broke and she won by half a length, in 2:53. This stopped the pool selling on what was really the only big betting race during the week. The sixth heat requires but little description, for the brown filly took the lead and never was headed once, winning in 2:58, without a skip. Zilophone got second money. We append a recapitulation.

We have given this race greater prominence than usual, because it was a test of several rival strains of blood which will figure prominently hereafter. The winner not only proved herself a game mare, but the race showed rare judgment on the part of her driver, who never went for a heat except he got an even start, and who rested up his filly while the rest of them were fighting over the bone. Beach lacked judgment in contending for every heat as he did, especially the first and third heats, in either of which he met with a misfortune which was sufficient to lose him the race. May Wintler is a good mare, but she needs rest and growth before she can hope to make a campaigner. Everybody seemed to know the race was for blood, and hence the great pressure of betting.

The second race was a dash of five furlongs for two-year olds, for which R. E. Bybee entered Ney Ella, by California out of Laura Barnes by Norfolk; and the Foster Brothers, of Lake county, made two entries: b f Lady Foster by Norfolk, and Amy B. by Ballot Box. Foster's pair brought $10 against $7 for Ney Ella. Bybee had no idea of winning the race and only bought one pool on his filly. Ney Ella was the last horse off and had to run clear around the other two fillies, but she had a terrible turn of speed, and before she was half way around the turn she was in front and going like a bombshell. Amy B. had cut out the work, intending Lady Foster to finish it, but Louis had waited too long, and when he made his run he found he could not reach Ney Ella, whose rider drew his whip and gave her a cut which shot her under the wire in 1:06½.

Fifth Day.

There were two races on the card of the day—a trot for the 2:38 class and a running race of what is called "cup distance," that is to say, 2¼ miles. The former race did not fill, and the cup race had three entries—Billy Coombs, Connor and the old Oregon favorite, Trade Dollar. The brown colt was an enormous favorite, bringing $20 against $10 for Connor and $6 for the old mare. In the choice for places Trade Dollar won the track, Connor got the middle place, and Billy Coombs was on the outside. Bigham let Trade Dollar and Connor off first, Coombs dropping into the third place. The race for a mile was a tremendous fight between Trade Dollar and the Klamath Lake horse, the mile being made in 1:50½. At the quarter-pole on the second mile Louis gave the colt his head and he passed Trade Dollar, who was badly cramped. Then laying himself at Connor's hip he raced up the back stretch at a furious flight and the old horse's leg began to fail him. (He went amiss on it a year ago at Sacramento and was sold as unsound. He pulled up hopelessly broken down after this race.) Connor and Billy fought a stiff battle through the half-mile ground, and then the brown colt came in front with his long stealing stride. The race was virtually over at the head of the quarter stretch (3:11) and Billy came home in a strong gallop in 4:09, beating Connor about three lengths under a big pull, while Trade Dollar was about 25 yards behind the broken-down hero of the first Pacific cup. The great amount of space devoted to races in this issue will preclude a more extended report of this race to-day, but THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN will do it full justice under the head of "The Oregon Cup," with full history of each of the three contestants.

The weather was insufferably hot and the dust pervaded every pore of the skin. It was just the kind of a day for a fast race, and the track was in splendid order for trotting, though a trifle hard for running. The attendance was very large and there was the best of order on the grounds. We are pleased to learn that the speed programme has been a financial success under the management of the select committee. It will be a good plan to keep it separate from the general management of the fairs in future.

The interest in the fair continues to the close of the fifth day, the crowd in the pavilion and at the grand stand being in the afternoon fully equal to that of any previous day. The heat was intense all day and the dust about the ground stifling. The universal desire of the crowd seemed to be to hunt a cool place, but so far as our observation extended it remained unfulfilled and the perspiring stream of humanity moved constantly about in the unavailing search. The only place approaching to coolness and comfort in the afternoon was the floral department connected with the pavilion, which by free use of the hose was kept tolerably cool. The three principal exhibitors in this department were Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. F. A. Smith and Mrs. Bridges, all of Salem. Mrs. Taylor's collection on the right of the entrance is large and though not showy with bloom contains some very fine specimens of foliage, creeping and flowering plants. On the left of the entrance Mrs. Bridges shows a very handsome collection of geraniums in full bloom. The center of the garden is occupied by Mrs. Smith's display. This lady shows 125 varieties of plants and flowers, conspicuous among which is a magnificent oleander in full bloom. She takes upon flowering plants 15 first premiums, the first premium on foliage plants and diploma for best display in this department. The

PAVILION

Presents but few additional attractions since our last report. Noting more particularly the department devoted to ladies' fancy work we observe numerous articles, pretty and artistic, that deserve special mention, but find great difficulty in learning the names of exhibitors, very few having names attached to the cards.

We note an ottoman in raised worsted work in hair cloth and a beautiful specimen of the same work on velvet by Miss Teresa D'Arcy.

Miss Augusta Richter shows two sofa pillows in worsted embroidery in velvet that are quite pretty.

Mrs. J. W. Weatherford also shows a fine specimen of this work.

Mrs. Geo. Brown shows a Turkish rug that is suggestive both of the useful and ornamental.

Mrs. F. M. Wilkins shows a chair pillow prettily designed.

Miss Ada Breyman's collection of point lace barbs and collars is universally and justly admired.

Among the newer articles is a set of lambrequins for window and mantle that are very handsome, and a number of tidies and mats in Java canvas, to which the names of exhibitors are not attached.

In ladies' underwear the specimens both in machine and hand work, though few, are exceedingly well done. The articles of domestic manufacture make a slim showing, being but two or three specimens of rag carpet, one of stair carpet, some unsightly home-made blankets, and the two ancient balmoral skirts before mentioned. We are pleased to note a change in the minds of judges in regard to these latter this year, the blue and red ribbons attached having changed places.

The exhibit in quilts is full, and all seem to take premiums. One of these is said to contain 7000 pieces; life is too short to corroborate or disprove the statement by actual count of the zigzag patches. Some of these articles bear evidence of long and hard service and all show painstaking labor.

By reference to the premium list already spread before the readers of the OREGONIAN, it will be seen that there was almost no exhibit of vegetables, and that the grain and fruit exhibits were very light indeed.

The pavilion was enlivened most of the day by music, vocal and instrumental, which, together with the crowded aisles, was a reminder of fairs held in the prosperous days of the past.

The society is greatly encouraged at the financial exhibit, having, besides paying the current expenses of the present fair, including all premiums awarded this year, reduced the debt $7000. The twenty second fair is practically closed, many campers having already struck their tents and returned home. The trains today will finish the work of depopulating the grounds, many hundreds coming north to visit the Mechanics' Fair now in progress in Portland. Others go home to rest over Sunday, preparatory to visiting this fair next week, while others still will be glad to get home with their babies, and stay there for the next year, at least.

PREMIUM LIST.

Herewith is the balance of the awards made, the previous list appearing yesterday. Division G in that list should have read B.

OREGON LEGISLATURE.

Mitchell 36, Prim 33, Failing 17, Thayer 3 and George 1.

Senate.

SALEM, Sept. 22.

Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Called to order by the president and opened with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Chambers of the Episcopal church.

The journal of yesterday read and approved.

On motion of Simon Judge Stott and wife were invited to occupy seats within the bar of the senate.

Bilyeu moved that J. C. Peebles be invited to a seat within the bar; carried.

Lee, from the committee to whom was referred the bill to incorporate the town of Buena Vista, reported the same back with sundry amendments, which were adopted, and the bill was ordered engrossed and read a third time to-morrow.

SECOND READING OF BILLS.

S. B. No. 11—For an act for collecting, compiling and printing a code of laws for Oregon, with annotations and forms; providing that E. D. Shattuck and B. F. Dowell and some other person to be named, be appointed code commissioners.

On motion of Waters referred to the judiciary committee.

S. B. 11—To amend law and increase salaries of supreme and circuit judges to $3000.

Davenport moved to refer to committee on ways and means.

Hirsch moved to amend by referring to the judiciary committee. Carried and the bill was so referred.

S. B. 12—For the relief of J. C. Frink.

On motion of Lee referred to the committee on claims.

S. B. 14—Providing for the construction of unfinished or abandoned railroads.

On motion of Jessup referred to committee on railroads.

S. B. 16—To authorize the superintendent of the penitentiary to make contracts for labor.

On motion of Dorris ordered to be engrossed and read a third time to-morrow.

S. B. 18 To amend law relating to appropriation of lands by private corporations.

On motion of Humphrey referred to the judiciary committee.

The hour of 12 M. having arrived the senate repaired to the hall of the house to vote for U. S. senator.

Upon returning from the joint convention the senate adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

House.

House met at 10 o'clock, Speaker McBride in the chair.

Roll called.

Journal of yesterday read and approved.

Mr. Kelly was granted leave of absence until 11 o'clock.

Bills introduced; read first time and passed to second reading:

H. B. 110, Gilbert—Relief of C. Howard and Geo. Millican.

H. B. 111, Sperry—Creating county of Cole, and fixing salaries of county judge and treasurer.

H. B. 112, Moses—Establishing and maintaining artificial propagation of salmon in waters of the state and taxing salmon products therefor.

H. B. 113, Moss—Creating county of Klamath and fixing salaries of county judge and treasurer.

H. B. 114, Truitt—Amending miscellaneous laws of Oregon relating to partition fences.

H. B. 115, Parker—Regulating registration of voters and preventing fraudulent election.

Consideration of H. B. No. 30 of last session, which was made special order for to-day at 11, was deferred until Monday at 2 P. M.

SECOND READING OF BILLS.

H. B. No. 1, Sharp—Providing for pilotage on the Columbia and Willamette river. Bill describes the Columbia river between Astoria and its mouth, including a radius of five miles outside of the outer buoy to be known as the bar pilot ground; also the Columbia river above Astoria and the Willamette within limits of ship navigation; provides for appointment of three pilot commissioners for said pilot grounds to hold office for three years, one of which shall be appointed by the governor, one by the board of trade of Portland, and one by the chamber of commerce of Astoria; and in case either of said boards shall fail or neglect to make such appointment for a period of 20 days then it shall become the right and duty of the governor to make the same; provides that no person shall be granted a license by this board unless he is an American citizen of the age of 21, of temperate habits and good moral character, and possesses requisite experience as a navigator and pilot. Each pilot before receiving license shall deliver a bond of $5000 signed by himself and two acceptable sureties, and in failing to perform his duty shall be held liable for damage done; also regulates fees of pilots; referred to committee of whole house for Tuesday at 2 P. M.

H. B. 2, Plummer—Amending general laws of state relative to directors of corporations. It provides that a person to be a director must be a stockholder, and ceasing to be a stockholder ceases to be a director; referred to committee on corporations.

Message from the senate notifying the house of the passage of senate joint memorial No. 1, providing for building a harbor of refuge at Port Orford, and petitioning our representatives in congress to use their exertions to secure an appropriation for the same; house concurred.

Message from the senate notifying the house of the adoption of senate concurrent resolution memorializing congress to pass an act favoring the Maritime Canal Company of Nicaragua; also senate concurrent resolution providing for statement to be published by the secretary of state, in pamphlet form, of a full list of loans outstanding from the Agricultural and State University funds, and irreducible school fund of the state; house concurred.

H. B. 3, Isom—Authorizing assessment and collection of road taxes and election of road supervisors and defining their duties. It provides that a county court may levy a tax not exceeding 3 mills on the dollar on all taxable property in the county for road purposes; also a tax on every male person between the ages of 21 and 50, for the same purpose. Each election precinct shall constitute a road district; referred to committee on roads and highways.

H. B. 4, Tanner—Providing for government of Oregon Insane Asylum. The bill creates a board of trustees consisting of the governor, secretary of state and treasurer. They shall have power to govern and manage all affairs of the asylum and appoint all employes. They shall keep a record of all their proceedings, which shall be open at all times to inspection of citizens, and shall submit a report at each session of the legislature. Each member of the board shall be allowed $400 per annum; laid on the table.

NOTICE OF INTRODUCTION OF BILLS.

Furry—Increasing compensation of judge of 1st judicial district.

JOINT CONVENTION.

At the hour of 12 M. senate entered for joint convention, President McConnell in the chair; rolls called, showing full attendance.

Journal of yesterday read, and then proceeded to ballot with the following result:

The result having been announced, the president declared there had been no election.

On motion of Keady convention then proceeded to take a second ballot, which resulted exactly the same as the first.

On motion of Siglin, joint convention adjourned, senate retiring, house adjourned.

House reassembled at 2 P.M. On motion of Keady, bill 104 was ordered not printed.

SECOND READING OF BILLS.

H. B. 4—Taken from table and referred to special committee appointed to visit insane asylum, Kelly, Gilbert and Crawford.

H. B. 5, Keady—Amending act providing board of canal commissioners for the canal and locks of Willamette Falls, and to regulate passage of vessels through the same. It provides it to be unlawful for any person or corporation to charge any sum for passage of a vessel exceeding 25 cents per ton for freight on board and 10 cents for each passenger, and boats shall be passed in the order which they arrive at either terminus. If the owner or agents of the locks refuse to pass a vessel in accordance with these provisions, the owner and agent shall each forfeit $250 to the owner of the boat suffering detention. Referred to committee on internal improvements.

6, Morris—Amending general laws relative to roadways. It provides any road legally established may be vacated by petition and notice as required by law and in no other manner. Referred to committee on roads and highways.

At 2:45 house adjourned.

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 23, 1882

HIS HISTORY HIS OWN MAKING

The facts in the past history of J H Mitchell [illegible] been pretty fully presented [illegible] not from any personal [illegible] connected with it he is to [illegible] a conviction that the people [illegible] want a man to represent them in the United States senate whose record is sullied with the dark deeds from his first entry upon the stage of manhood [illegible] wild oats of a kind that he sows as a full grown man for which he is [illegible] legally responsible [illegible]. The Oregonian had nothing to do in the making of his history. He alone did that. Its his course of life and had he not ventured upon the political field claiming a right to the confidence and support of the people we should have kept silent as to his history, but if a notoriously bad man essays to palm himself on the public as worthy the confidence and respect of the people those who have the means to warn them that he is not to be trusted and do it not are derelict in a solemn duty. Mitchell's character is now known to the people and if their representatives see their way clear to elect him to choose a man of his character to represent them the responsibility will be upon their own shoulders. It will not be upon the republican party for that party in the aggregate does not want him. The better judgment of the members of that party rebels against his character as a man and as a politician.

The British Postoffice is substituting women clerks for men in the entire work of handling the postal savings bank deposits which are now $210 000 000 against $198 000 000 a year earlier. No men are to be dismissed but as fast as vacancies come they are to be filled by women selected of course by competitive examination. The London Spectator points out that the same change is in progress in other government departments as well as in business, so that the time must come soon when a young man's chances of getting employment will be materially diminished by the competition of women. The employment of women by the French Government has proved equally successful, and it is certain that we will not go on indefinitely employing men in state and city clerical work when women are cheaper and just as efficient. The Spectator is skeptical as to the result as far as children born and reared by women so employed is concerned, but the practical part is that the birth-rate is certain to be lessened, as it has been in France by the employment of women in business, if women are freely admitted to the work and calling of men.

The reports of some of the San Francisco papers of the arrival of the Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne were quite remarkable in their way. The democratic spirit which no doubt filled the breasts of the reporters when they saw these representatives of an effete monarchy and a bloated aristocracy found vent in peculiar ways. Thus one republican journalist appraised the costume of the princess, gravely estimated the value of her hat, her dress, her gloves and her boots, and concluded by expressing the contemptuous opinion that there were hundreds of American ladies in the crowd who were very much more expensively dressed. Another playful and equally refined reporter endeavored to create the impression that some of his rivals had been kicked off the special train. Nearly all of them seem to have striven to infuse as much as possible of this kind of "fun" into their accounts, and taking the latter altogether they must be regarded as effective illustrations of what ought most to be avoided in journalism.

The exciting contest in Maine developed some highly ornamental campaign oratory. A Plaisted stump-speaker closed his remarks the other day with the following bit of eloquence: "It would be better to die fighting for the right than live under tyranny. The puritan spirit that has shaken the thrones of kings shines in your faces, echoing your cheers. Your eyes glow with the light of coming victory. Charge, as the Athenians did the Persians, and drove their gilded hosts into the sea.

> "When banners kissed the breeze,
> When helmets in sunlight shone,
> When masts were on the seas,
> And spears on Marathon.'"

It is fortunate for the peace and happiness of the country that the Maine election is over.

In the number of cattle the United States stands at the head of the countries of the world, the number being 39,500,000, India stands second with 30,000,000, and Russia third with 29,000,000. In horses Russia takes first rank with 20,000,000, United States next with 10,500,000, and Austria takes third with 3,500,000. In sheep Australia takes the lead 80,000,000, the Argentine Republic coming second with 68,000,000; Russia takes third rank with 58,000,000, and the United States fourth with 36,000,000. In the matter of the festive goat, India leads with 20,000,000, Africa and Cape of Good Hope make a bad second with 6,500,000, and Mexico third with 6,000,000.

According to a census bulletin just issued there are in the United States—the territories not counted—12,870 117 persons of the male sex over twenty-one years of age. The enumeration is supposed to have been made in 1880, so that it may fairly be compared with the election in November of that year when 9,204 428 ballots were cast, so that 3 465 580 or nearly 30 per cent of the males of voting age did not go to the polls.

A NEW CANDIDATE.

PORTLAND, Sept 21

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

If the Mitchell gang fail to elect their chief would it not be good policy for them to have Governor Moody pardon Savage Smith the desperado sentenced to the penitentiary both from this and Marion county for highway robbery and run him as their next most available candidate. Not that we wish to injure the standing of Mr. Smith in the community at large by any invidious comparison with Mitchell for we don't believe the desperado Smith to be one tenth as criminal as the desperado Mitchell. Smith only robbed a couple of strong, able-bodied men of a few dollars, Mitchell has robbed a number of weak confiding women of virtue his own children of a good name, and dead people's children of tens of thousands of dollars justly due them and then left them to the tender mercies of a cold pitiless world, but Smith's moral character is of the same type as Mitchell's. If he were allowed his liberty and would engage in politics in a few years he would soon become Mitchell's peer and a man of whom Mitchell's friends might justly be proud.

CITIZEN

A GOOD REPRESENTATIVE

PORTLAND Sept 1

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Should a farmer send a sack of wheat to a merchant as a fair sample of his crop and upon examining that sack of wheat the merchant should find one-third smut one third chaff and the balance filth he would justly infer that the farmer's whole crop was of the same nature.

It is claimed by Mitchell's friends that he would more justly and fairly represent the people of Oregon in the United States senate than any other man they can send.

Since Mitchell has a national reputation as an adulterer a bigamist a robber of wives and [illegible] a pettifogger, and a low [illegible] unscrupulous politician if [illegible] the world might fairly judge these qualities [illegible] the people of Oregon. [illegible] of things exists in our fair young state.

VOTER

IS THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE ELIGIBLE?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The Constitution of Oregon provides [illegible] No senator or representative shall during the time for which he may have been elected be eligible to any office the election to which is vested in the Legislative Assembly. [illegible] This plain provision of the constitution must have been overlooked by the Democratic senatorial caucus for they have nominated a senator from Jackson county for the U. S. senate. That there is no possibility [illegible] electing him is no reason for nominating a man that is disqualified.

There are rumors to-night that Mitchell has secured a sufficient number of [illegible] to elect him on the first ballot to-morrow. [illegible] said to-night that [illegible] talk has become [illegible] crowd [illegible]

The [illegible] nearly all members were present this [illegible] more but enough [illegible] elect certainly [illegible] is however the opinion of [illegible] all will stand solid for Prim [illegible] have been freely at work [illegible] give the statement as a possibility rather than a thing to be expected. It is generally admitted that to-morrow is Mitchell's last trial [illegible] of his friends admit that if he cannot make it then he had better stand out of the way. Several of his supporters are demanding a new caucus and if one is not held before Monday several are expected then to abandon Mitchell. They will give due notice of their purpose in advance so that there may be no misunderstanding or unfair criticism. Mitchell is making his life or death struggle to night. To-morrow's ballot is looked forward to with great interest.

DUG HIS GRAVE.

EUGENE CITY Sept 1

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Your remarks in Wednesday's OREGONIAN in regard to Eakin of this county, and a few other republican members of the legislature who lay claims to respectability were both timely and to the point. Had it been known at the time of the election that Eakin would pursue the course he has he would have been snowed under by a majority of 500. He has grossly misrepresented the will of his constituents, for not only republicans but many democrats voted for him and unless I greatly misjudge the temper of the people he has by his recent conduct dug his own political grave.

Here is another grain of comfort for lovers of the weed. A Virginia physician says he has never known an habitual consumer of tobacco to have the typhoid fever.

Wm Peak, formerly agent of the Peak family of bell ringers, was recently arrested at Goshen, N. Y. as a vagrant, and sent to jail. Ten years ago he was worth $100 000. He gave much of his wealth to charity.

The great organ in the Boston music hall has been sold to a church congregation in a western city, and is soon to be removed. Years ago this organ was considered one of the finest in the United States. Organ concerts were given to display the instrument, but the concerts were not remunerative and now the organ is to be sold.

The Hon Alexander H Stephens, of Georgia, to a visitor a few days ago gave as his definition of the term Bourbon: "An idiot who seriously believes that confederate money will if the democratic party gets into power, become as good as gold and that the time is not far off when he will be allowed to wallop a nigger as in the glorious ante-bellum days."

Thurlow Weed in a recent letter on civil service reform complains that "The academies and colleges contribute a very large contingent to the army of office-seekers." Mr Weed expresses the belief that there is too much "liberal education in this country, which produces idleness and office-beggars—men who resort to office-seeking as a means of living and who get to hating hard work."

New York Graphic: The intemperate prohibitory people are a much more real danger to society than all the drunkards in it, for they are trying to reintroduce methods of government such as the world has been seeking to get rid of for centuries. They are endeavoring to restore that inquisition into the private life of the citizen which men like Calvin and Torquemada considered essential to the maintenance of a well-ordered state.

May Fiske, formerly at the head of the British Blonde Burlesque Company, puts out posters in in land cities advertising a lecture, but so deceptively worded that they seem to promise a great show by the departed blondes for 25 cents. All the gorgeous pictures once employed in announcing that company are also displayed. A crowded hall is the result and then Miss Fiske, clothed in conventional black delivers a lecture about the performances which she used to give.

A Mr Cook of Philadelphia, who died in 1846, in his will bequeathed 5000 acres of wild land near Forbury, Pa to the Pennsylvania hospital and the Pennsylvania institute for the blind. For years these institutions have derived no income from the gift, and have been satisfied by the fact that it required no expenditure on their part. A week ago however, oil was struck on the property and there are hundreds of applications for leases of the land. The property is now estimated to be worth from $2 000,000 to $5 000 000.

MILITARY AND PERSONAL.

(Vancouver Independent.)

Capt. Frank D. Baldwin will return from Fort Colville to-day.

Headquarters of the department are now removed to the new building.

Lieut. L. A. Chamberlin, 1st Art., returned to headquarters from his Fort Coeur d' Alene trip on Tuesday.

Gen. O. D. Greene, Adjutant General of the department, will depart on to-day's steamer for San Francisco.

Asst. Surgeon C. L. Heizmann and Capt. J. Q. Adams, 1st Cav., on Tuesday returned from Fort Townsend.

Capt. Frank Taylor's light battery, of the 1st Artillery, arrived at headquarters yesterday, for permanent station.

Major J. C. Breckinridge, Asst. Insp. Gen., under direction of Gen. McDowell, is now inspecting the posts of this department.

Rev. O. J. Nave, who, it is reported, has been appointed to the military post at Vancouver, is a young married man, a Methodist, and a member of the Ohio conference.

Major C. W. Wingard, paymaster U. S. A., who died recently at Fort Douglas, Utah, was a brother of Judge S. C. Wingard, of Walla Walla, and was once stationed on this coast.

Major Theodore Eckerson, U. S. A., formerly stationed at Vancouver, now depot quartermaster at Boston, on Aug. 31 fell down a stairway, breaking his left arm in two places between the elbow and shoulder. Many old time friends in Vancouver regret the Major's severe accident.

UNION COUNTY FAIR.

First Day.

Since haying, several weeks ago, old Pluvius had withheld his gentle favors, but seemingly just in time to thoroughly wet up fair-goers he has sent us a big slice of Webfoot mist. On Friday, the 15th inst., dark rolling clouds hovered over Grand Ronde valley and it has continued for some days to rain in the lowlands with flurries of snow on the mountains. On the morning of September 18th, the opening day of Union county's tenth annual fair the outlook was very discouraging for a successful meeting. The stables were crowded—Patsey Duffy and other racers having arrived the night before. There are but few noted horses present as the state fair is also now in progress. However Walla Walla, Boise City, Baker City and local flyers are here in force. Trotters are better represented in proportion than runners. In hopes of more propitious weather and a better track the managers decided to postpone races on the programme until to-day. $3000 is offered in purses and premiums and by a wise arrangement no entry fee is required except for races.

SECOND DAY.

With a clear sky, the prospects are much brighter than on yesterday. Many articles are on exhibition at the pavilion and grounds and are constantly arriving. With continuance of the present good weather the track will be in excellent condition for the more important trials of speed. The exhibit of fine stock will probably be very fair.

The racing to-day consisted of a mile dash, free for all northwest coast-raised horses, followed by a trot, two best in three, mile heats, for two-year-old colts. For the mile dash Joe Kinney, of Boise City, entered Policy; Stargill Bros., of Baker City, Sunbeam, and John Young, of Walla Walla, the mare Daisy. This was a very pretty race, in spite of the heavy track and slow time. The racers ran bunched together until entering the homestretch, when Policy showed his Osceola blood by forging into the lead with apparent ease, and winning the race by several lengths, amid cheers for Idaho; Sunbeam second, Daisy a modest third. Time 2:00.

Three colts contested the two-year-old trot, and well sustained the good opinion of their friends.

Au Revoir	1	4	1
Laura C	2	1	2
Roxanna	4	2	3

Time, 3:31½, 3:26½, 3:27½.

THIRD DAY.

The pavilion is now well filled with a varied display well calculated to show the many resources of this section. The exhibit in the stockyards and on the grounds is good, and much interest is taken in these departments as well as in the races. The track is in pretty fair condition and improving rapidly. The weather is lovely and attendance better than on any former day. There were two races this afternoon, as follows:

Mile dash, free for all two-year olds:

Mazurka	1
Magpie	2
Ann Lightner	3

Time, 1:58.

Half mile heats 2 in 3:

	1st.	2d.
Rosa S. (Baker City)	3	2
Sunbeam do. do.	1	1
Davy Crockett (Walla Walla)	2	3

Time, 50½, 52.

W. SCHEFFLER'S PURE WINES AND BRANDY.

It is universally conceded that Wm. Scheffler's, St. Helena, Cal., good old Port, Sherry, Amber, White Reseling, Hock, Muscat, Angelica and Claret Wines, as also his Sanitary vacuum distilled pure Grape Brandy, are really superior to other manufactures, not excepting that imported, the adulterations and impurities of which is now generally understood. Mr. Scheffler's goods are popularly known all over the Pacific coast. Eight-tenths of all the druggists in California, Oregon and Washington territory have adopted his goods, discarding the imported. Ask your druggist here in Portland, East Portland, or in any town in this northwest, and you will be quite sure to obtain it, as you will at most of the first-class hotels and bars. Mr. Scheffler's Wines and Sanitary Brandy have been steadily growing into favor until they are known well in almost every household as a medicine, if not otherwise. Mr. Scheffler's process of distilling in a vacuum is his own patent process, which relieves his brandy of the fusil oil, making it really pure, sanitary and healthful.

Mr. Geo. H. Besch, Mr. Scheffler's representative, is now up visiting his customers.

THE CITY CLERKSHIP.

Substantial Argument that A. J. Marshall was Confirmed by the Council.

It will be remembered that on Wednesday [illegible] Mayor Chapman appointed A. J. Marshall city auditor and clerk and that the [illegible] confirmation [illegible] the [illegible] council was [illegible] which [illegible] Mr. Spencer was nominated and elected [illegible] of the city charter reads:

Section [illegible] A majority of the members [illegible] the council shall constitute a quorum [illegible] but a less number may meet and adjourn from [illegible] time and compel the attendance of absent members.

Section [illegible] of the same chapter reads:

A majority of the whole number constituting the council as then provided by law, or a majority of the council or members thereof within the meaning of this act and not otherwise, unless expressly so provided. [illegible] concurrence of a majority of a quorum is a sufficient majority to determine any question or matter, other than the final passage of an ordinance.

It is held by some of the best lawyers here that Mr. Marshall was legally confirmed and is entitled to the office. However he will not make an effort for the place and so expressed himself to friends of Mr. Spencer, who will probably qualify to-day.

O. & C. EXTENSION NOTES.

FROM THE OREGONIAN'S SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

RIDDLEVILLE, Sept. 20.

The paymaster is expected here to-day from the front.

The station for Glendale is progressing rapidly with the depot buildings at this place.

Chas. A. F. Morris, chief engineer of the O. & C. railroad, arrived here yesterday evening.

Rumor says the notorious Frank James is rusticating in Cow creek canyon. The chances are 99 out of 100 that rumor is wrong.

Mr. Walter Phillips, a prosperous young man, who had been working for the company as foreman until a month ago, passed through Riddleville with his beautiful wife, formerly Miss Lena Anderson, of Ashland. They were married about a week ago and are now on their way to New Tacoma.

On the 17th Mr. Harris was pressed into the pay-master's escort and shouldering an unloaded shotgun, he accompanied him as far as camp three, where, leaving his shotgun, he crossed over the creek and joined J. V. Stevens on the grade. Mrs. Harris makes her home in a car, fitted up for that purpose, at the end of the track. She attends to her own household affairs and seems to enjoy more than average happiness.

There are three brothers working in a Chinese gang in the first division who, although they wear cues, are not Chinamen. They are the offspring of a Chinese father and Peruvian mother and were born in the latter country. They have a frank, intelligent expression, large mouths, almond eyes, noses rather flat, and they are of average stature. They are aged respectively 15, 17 and 18. One of them can speak Spanish, Chinese and English with equal facility, besides he possesses a fair education and is endowed with the talent of an artist.

It is reported that in excavating the approach to tunnel No. 8 on north side, a Chinaman exhumed a fragment of a huge tusk. It evidently belonged to that species of prehistoric animals the name of which has lockjawed so many naturalists. The piece measured 28 inches in length and 30 in circumference. It was in an excellent state of preservation. The hollow in its center measured 1 in. in diameter. It is also stated that numerous trees, equally well preserved, are found at the same depth. The approach to this tunnel was made through a slightly inclined gulch, the soil of which had, through countless ages, worked its way down and helped to fill up the gulch. The approach is now completed and the work of piercing has commenced. The narrator of the tusk story is a reliable man, but I hate sensational fiction unless it be unmistakably branded as such, and shall make it my business at some future time to investigate the matter and publish the result.

The reason White & Haines, merchant tailors, 203 First st, do such good work at such low rates is that they do all their own work. Neither do they send out any work to Chinamen. This is commendable and our citizens should patronize accordingly.

THE COURTS.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT—DEADY, J.

FRIDAY, Sept. 22.

Thos. Savage admitted to citizenship.

Falkner, Bell & Co. vs Geo. Marshall—Demurrer to complaint set for hearing Sept. 27th.

Bush & Ladd vs The United States—Motion to dismiss bill of review argued and submitted.

U. S. vs The Fritz—Excess of Chinese berths, libel dismissed upon $1000 fine and costs having been paid.

Court adjourned till Monday.

Gentlemen in need of a handsome dress or business suit made to order will do well to call on Friedlander & Co., 214 First st., before purchasing elsewhere. Send for samples and rules for self-measurement.

FROM ROSEBURG TO RIDDLEVILLE.

REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.

RIDDLEVILLE, Or., Sept. 19.

At 7 P. M. we boarded the passenger train at Roseburg and started for Myrtle creek. Passing No. [illegible] grist mill we touch the banks of the Umpqua, [illegible] through a deep rock cut, cross a road, over a [illegible] stretch of country and we are at Greensville, about four miles south of Roseburg. This depot is a neat substantial structure. Except the warehouse there are no other buildings at this place. As we approach Flapps' ranch the valley becomes narrower. We have [illegible] hills with scattering oaks on each side. A mile further and we pass the Mountain house, seven miles from Roseburg. Here the stage road ascends the mountain and we pass it at an angle of 30 degrees. Again we touch the banks of the Umpqua and for three or four miles make a series of curves. The river on our right, we wind around the steep wooded mountain on our left. Here the scenery is extremely picturesque. How clear, still and deep the river, how refreshingly green the wild woods on the mountain side above! Now we leave the river and another narrow valley appears. Gliding along on its eastern limits a few minutes we arrive at Dillard's station. This is the second depot twelve miles south of Roseburg. This building is the exact counterpart of the one at Greensville. Besides the warehouse there is a small cottage within a stone's throw of the station. This establishes the fact that Dillard's is the largest and the most important station. The train stops an instant, then moves on south through a narrow broken valley, with rolling woodland hills on either side. We pass French Burnett's prolific orchard, cross the stage road through scattering timber, pass a farm house on the roadside, cross the road again by that rock cut where Pilzer Smith was killed, we draw near the river, and are at Oak Grove, about 17 miles from Roseburg. Passing through Mr. Stevenson's orchard, we cross the stage road again, and in ten minutes are at Bailey's ranch. There is a water tank here. We are now about two miles from Myrtle creek. A few minutes and we make a short curve to the right pass Mr. Lane's house, curve again to the left and pass the largest rock cut this side of Grave creek. This is the spot where Freeman Berry and three Chinamen lost their lives by an explosion. Leaving it on our left, we pass over several hundred yards of trestle work. Then we arrive at Myrtle Creek depot, twenty-two miles south of Roseburg and half a mile from the village of Myrtle Creek. The depot buildings and warehouse are in course of construction. The depot agent at present transacts his business in a box car. This is the point at which all the southern freight has been delivered for the last month.

Next morning we returned to the station and observed two tents with freight piled underneath and some scattered around. Teams are coming and going. There are two new private buildings erected close to the depot. The construction train is ready to leave for the front. We jump on board, cross the Umpqua bridge, leave the river on our left, while we wind round the foothills on our right we glide through a narrow rugged strip of valley that vista is continually broken by timber; a farm house appears at intervals, and in fifteen minutes we are at Riddleville, about 30 miles south of Roseburg. This station will be the great supply depot and shipping point of Southern Oregon this winter. There is a large warehouse just completed, and is now ready to receive public freight. The passenger and freight train will commence running to Riddleville as soon as the depot buildings are erected.

Riddleville, a brand new town, is located in a level valley several miles in extent. There are some eight or nine new buildings scattered over several acres of ground, three saloons, one millinery store, two grocery stores, a large and pretentious hotel, and several private houses. Mr. Riddle, upon whose ranch the town is built, lives about one-third of a mile from the depot. He has had erected a large and commodious building for hotel purposes. It will be capable of entertaining a hundred persons. Mr. Riddle has hauled plank and will immediately set about constructing a decent sidewalk from the depot to his hotel. He will also run a free bus or hack to and from the cars, for the accommodation of boarders. In answer to frequent inquiries, made by merchants and others in regard to the best and cheapest route to ship freight to Southern Oregon, we would say, by way of Riddleville, which is now the terminal depot for the O. & C. R. R. extension.

MILITARY AND PERSONAL.

(Vancouver Independent)

Capt. [illegible] D. Baldwin will return from Fort [illegible] ville to-day.

Headquarters of the department are now removed [illegible]

Lieut. [illegible] A. Chamb[illegible] 1st Art, returned to headquarters from his Fort [illegible] d'Alene trip on Tuesday.

Gen. O. D. Greene, Adjutant General of the department, will depart [illegible] steamer for San Francisco.

Asst. Surgeon [illegible] Horn[illegible] and Capt. J. Q. Adams, 1st Cav., [illegible] Tuesday returned from Fort Townsend.

Capt. Frank Taylor's light battery of the 1st Artillery arrived at headquarters yesterday for permanent station.

Major J. C. Breckinridge, Asst. Insp. Gen. [illegible] direction of Gen. McDowell, is now inspecting the posts of this department.

Rev. O. J. Nave, who it is reported has been appointed to the military post at Vancouver, is a young married man, a Methodist, and a member of the Ohio conference.

Major C. W. Wingard, paymaster U. S. A., who died recently at Fort Douglas, Utah, was a brother of Judge S. C. Wingard of Walla Walla and was once stationed on this coast.

Major Theodore Eckerson, U. S. A., formerly stationed at Vancouver, now depot quartermaster at Boston, on Aug. 31 fell down a stairway, breaking his left arm in two places between the [illegible] and shoulder. Many old time friends in Vancouver regret the Major's severe accident.

UNION COUNTY FAIR.

First Day

Since haying, several weeks ago, old Pluvius had withheld his gentle favors, but seemingly just in time to thoroughly wet [illegible] fair goers he has sent us a big slice of Webfoot [illegible] On Friday, the 15th inst., dark [illegible] clouds [illegible] over Grand Ronde valley and it has continued for some days to rain in the [illegible] with flurries of snow on the mountains. On the morning of September 18th, the opening day of Union county's tenth annual fair, the outlook was very discouraging for a successful meeting. The stables were crowded—Pate, J. D. Fly and other racers having arrived the night before. There are but few [illegible] horses present as the state fair is also now in progress. However, Walla Walla, Boise City, Baker City and local fliers are here in force. Trotters are better represented in proportion than runners. In hopes of more propitious weather and a better track the managers decided to postpone races on the programme until to-day. $5000 is offered in purses and premiums and by a wise arrangement no entry fee is required except for races.

SECOND DAY

With a clear sky the prospects are much brighter than on yesterday. Many articles are on exhibition at the pavilion and grounds and are constantly arriving. With continuance of the present good weather the track will be in excellent condition for the more important trials of speed. The exhibit of fine stock will probably be very fair.

The racing to-day consisted of a mile dash, free for all northwest coast raised horses, followed by a trot, two best in three mile heats, for two year old colts. For the mile dash Joe Kinney of Boise City entered Lottie; Sting[illegible] Bros. of Baker City, S[illegible] beam, and John Young of Walla Walla, the mare Daisy. This was a very pretty race in spite of the heavy track and slow time. The racers ran [illegible] together until entering the homestretch, when Lottie showed his Osceola blood by forging into the lead with apparent ease and winning the race by several lengths amid cheers for Idaho. Sunbeam second, Daisy a [illegible] third. Time—[illegible]

Three colts contested the two year old trot and well sustained the good opinion of their friends.

THIRD DAY

The pavilion is now well filled with a varied display well calculated to show the many resources of this section. The exhibit in the stockyards and on the grounds is good and much interest is taken in these departments as well as in the races. The track is in pretty fair condition and improving rapidly. The weather is lovely and all [illegible] better than on [illegible] There were two races this afternoon as follows:

W. SCHEFFLER'S PURE WINES AND BRANDY.

It is universally conceded that Wm. Scheffler's St. Helena, Cal., good old Port, Sherry, Amber, White Riesling, Hock, Muscat, Angelica and Claret Wines, as also his Sanitary vacuum distilled pure Grape Brandy, are really superior to other manufactures, not excepting that imported, the adulterations and impurities of which is now generally understood. Mr. Scheffler's goods are popularly known all over the Pacific coast. Eight-tenths of all the druggists in California, Oregon and Washington territory have adopted his goods, discarding the imported. Ask your druggist here in Portland, East Portland, or in any town in this northwest, and you will be quite sure to obtain it, as you will at most of the first-class hotels and bars. Mr. Scheffler's Wines and Sanitary Brandy have been steadily growing into favor until they are known well in almost every household as a medicine if not otherwise. Mr. Scheffler's process of distilling in a vacuum is his own patent process, which relieves his brandy of the fusil oil, making it really pure, sanitary and healthful.

Mr. Geo. H. Heath, Mr. Scheffler's representative, is now up visiting his customers.

SALADS AND SALAD-MAKING.

[From London Society.]

The obvious accompaniment to cold meats is salad, which may be truly said to fill the bowl which cheers but not inebriates. No wonder that tradition [illegible] that it takes three people to make a good salad—a sage to contribute the salt, a miser to add the vinegar, and a prodigal to pour in the oil. To which may be added an untiring steam arm or electric motor, to stir up the mixture for an indefinite time. For if "when taken to be well shaken" is applicable to anything that enters the human stomach, it is certainly so to the assemblage of ingredients which go to make a finished salad. In default of an automatic mechanical salad-mixer it is the host's duty to perform that task; and it is polite on his part to help himself first, because the best lies at the bottom of the bowl. Fatiguer to fatigue that salad, is the French expressive description of how it ought to be turned over and over; so much so that "Je vais te faire la salade" is a popular threat that a good drubbing instead of a good time, is coming. Another saying, "Bataillons de salade," batteries draws promiscuously from drivers and sundry corps of soldiers, is founded on the multiplicity of herbs eligible for the composition of a salad. The hemp plant was known as "Salade de Gascogne" Gascony salad—because it furnished ropes wherewith malefactors in the south of France were hanged. By such salad many a one has been choked, who previously had cultivated the cause of death—thereby suffering a much worse malady than that implied by the proverb.

"Qui vin ne boit apres salade,
Est en danger d'estre malade."
"After salad take some wine,
And health with pleasure thus combine."
"Salad eaten, claret take,
And so avoid a stomach-ache."

A glass of good Bordeaux or Burgundy wine, or even of pale ale, with or after salad, is a better, and to many people a more agreeable digestive, than pepper—white, black or red—mixed with the vegetables as seasoning.

Midsummer is not the time to dilate on winter salad-plants, but as winter is sure to arrive in course of time, a mention of some may be a useful reminder to the gardener as well as to the provision-purveyor. Late autumn should supply well-blanched broad-leaved endive, crisp and pleasant; curled or grizzled endive, very pretty to look at, but hard and wiry to chew; red beet root, slowly baked in an oven, ornamental and original, both in appearance and flavor; blanched celery, aromatic and wholesome, in moderate quantity. The best way is to mix it chopped very fine, with other things, and then to say nothing about it. French journals—probably by way of padding to their paper—are constantly recommending celery as a remedy for gout and rheumatism. Let those believe who have been cured by its use. Watercress, methinks, is best eaten alone, unaccompanied by other herbs, and au naturel, without any dressing or condiment except a grain of salt. Its union in that state with roast fowl or turkey is perfectly orthodox and deservedly praiseworthy. Early winter watercress is preferable to any other. Spring watercress is a favorite nidus for the eggs of creatures called inferior or simple; and, if hatched in the stomach, we don't know what they may grow to. Later on you get capucin's beard, starved chicory plants made to shoot forth long, narrow leaves in a cellar, which thereby become yellowish ivory-white, tempting and nutty, but supplying your molars with capital exercise. Dandelion follows, blanched either accidentally in molehills, or intentionally by earthing up, or grown in any dark hole or cave. The prejudiced and incredulous who refuse to give it a trial have no idea what a mistake they make. Last and worst, you have corn salad, lamb lettuce, mache a valerian, to be eaten sitting on a stool of repentance—which often follows after it is swallowed, when it is too late to wish you had let it alone. While lamb lettuce is running up to seed, the delicate frame lettuces and spring radishes come in, commencing once more the cycle of the culinary year.

The Way to Lead a Crowd.

You must not judge me by what I say at those tumultuous public meetings. I constantly regret the necessity of violating good taste and kind feeling in my public harangues. I say advisedly necessity; for I defy anybody to keep the ear of the public for seven years upon any one question without striving to amuse as well as instruct. People do not attend public meetings to be taught, but to be excited, flattered and pleased. If they are simply lectured, they may sit out the lesson for once, but they will not come again; and as I have required them again and again, I have been obliged to amuse them, not by standing on my head or eating fire, but by kindred feats of jugglery, such as appeals to their self-esteem, their combativeness or their humor. You know how easily in touching their feelings one degenerates into flattery, vindictiveness or grossness.—Cobden's Letters in His Memoirs.

Adhering to His Own Religion.

Mr. G. W. Childs, it is said, is very anxious to get his particular friend, Gen. Grant, in the Episcopal church. But he does not seem to be progressing much, for the general says that while the Methodist church service is short and the sermon long, the Episcopal church service is long and the sermon short, which, as he expresses it, makes six of one and half a dozen of the other. So he cannot see what he is going to gain by the change. But the general does not go to church now as much as he did when he was in Washington.—Baltimore Sun.

Condition of Trade in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Following is the report of the condition of trade for the week ending to-day. General business shows improvement in most branches since last week, and there are signs of still greater activity soon. Fall trade in the city is very active, and in some branches exceptionally large. The steady rush of buyers from the country is still continuing.

The jobbing dry goods trade is very active, and it is many years since so many buyers were here. All branches seem about equally active. Prices are firm and there is very little cutting noticed. The demand for seasonable domestic goods is excellent, while foreign dry goods, fancy goods, clothing, etc., all are active.

In the grain market prices of wheat are relatively much stronger than at the west. The supply here is in good demand at moderate rates, and the market shows rather more firmness. Corn closes about half a cent lower than previous quotations on active business. Oats are a little higher and close firm with moderate dealings.

The market for pork products is still irregular and unsettled. Prices have fluctuated considerably and the market closes with somewhat more strength.

Promise of a good cotton crop has had its influence in the market. An attempted corner in August cotton has broken down, and it is thought both sides were losers, but we do not hear that any houses have been materially affected. September is still the same at 25 to 48 points above the latter months, but prices are coming closer.

In petroleum towards the end of the week there has been a firmer tone, and closing prices show a change of about one cent in favor of holders, which is surprising, as a reaction was expected after the unloading and tremendous business lately transacted.

The freight market is quiet with slack demand. The supply of tonnage is light, which gives the market its support. Grain room by steam is in good demand, but rates are easy.

The boot and shoe trade is steady and active. Manufacturers are in receipt of plenty of orders and the demand for the finer class of goods is well sustained.

The leather trade has been good and the business done satisfactory in all branches. Prices are firm with upward tendency.

Transactions in American pig iron the last week have been light. Prices are steady and stocks not large. It is expected higher prices will be realized later in the season, the protracted strike having reduced stocks so much. There has been a fair demand for Scotch pig and prices are a little higher owing to an advance on freight rates. In other branches of the iron trade a very fair business is being done.

More activity prevails in lumber and firmer prices, and the outlook for a good fall trade is favorable, especially in the building line.

Furniture is not so active as in August, but prices are well sustained.

In butter receipts are not large. Choice creamery is worth 29 to 30c. The home demand is steady, but buyers are cautious. Inquiry for export is light and shippers looking for lower prices, though in some cases an advance has been paid for good summer made stocks.

Receipts of cheese are large and the condition of trade uncertain and not very satisfactory. A fair stock on hand is steady and the demand for state factory slow at unchanged prices.

In Rio coffee prices are firm, but the demand is not large. Pending auction sales holders are not pressing to sell, but are inclined to stay for higher prices on better advices from Rio. Mild coffees are selling at about previous prices, but buyers are purchasing only for the supply of immediate wants.

The raw sugar market is a little stronger and the local demand better, [illegible] of town orders being received more freely at slightly higher rates. Refined sugars are in good demand with quick sales.

The tea market is steady with a good opportunity for selection, both as to quality and assortment. Prices are fairly well maintained.

WORTHLESS STUFF.

Not so fast, my friend; if you could see the strong, healthy, blooming men, women and children that have been raised from beds of sickness, suffering and almost death, by the use of Hop Bitters, you would say "Glorious and invaluable remedy." See another column. Philadelphia Press.

INTELLIGENT PEOPLE

Thirty-five years ago the House of MEIER & FRANK was established, with a limited stock, worth a few hundred dollars; to-day it is doing a business on a gigantic scale, having SIX Distinct Stores concentrated under one roof, each room containing its Special line of goods, and presided over by an experienced man—with a stock all told valued at 350,000 DOLLARS.

Well knowing that we were in a position to handle goods in large quantities, we placed ourselves in direct communication with leading Eastern and European Manufacturers, the result is that to-day of dry goods on this coast.

WE ARE THE LARGEST IMPORTERS

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To parties visiting Portland during the FAIR, we say give us a call, examine the goods and prices, even if you do not wish to purchase, it will serve you as a guide, and may eventually SAVE YOU MONEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.

It is generally conceded that the enterprise begun in this city about five years ago, and known as the FARMERS AND MECHANICS' STORE, has met with a success unparalleled in the mercantile history of this State, and almost prodigious in its nature.

The cause underlying this success is not questionable any longer. It is simply this: The people of Oregon having so long a time been the victims of grasping and unscrupulous dealers, having for so many years been ground under the heel of an avaricious guild, have at last had their eyes opened to the fact that their dollar, no less than anybody else's, is worth one hundred cents, and ought, by right, purchase as much as if in the hands of the merchant.

To the FARMERS AND MECHANICS' STORE belongs the credit of having released the people from the oppressive yoke, of having redeemed them from their thraldom, and of having enlightened them upon a point so vital to their prosperity. This vexes those merchants who are unable to keep pace with the march of time, who are loth to accustom themselves to smaller profits, and who never forget anything, because they never learn anything, and they cannot help themselves. They are spotted; the people have put the mark on them, while the FARMERS AND MECHANICS' STORE has become the household word in every family in the State, and is to them synonymous with honesty, integrity and fair dealing.

To take advantage of the fair fame of which the FARMERS AND MECHANICS' STORE has a right to boast, is something from which their competitors do not shrink; their sense of honor does not deter them from stooping so low, and consequently it often occurs that when a party, for the first time in this city, happens to fall in their clutches, he is led to believe, when asking for the FARMERS AND MECHANICS' STORE, that he is just in the place he is looking for, by every device, chicanery and false representation he is deceived. This has occurred so often that the proprietor of the above mentioned place, finds himself compelled to notify those who have so long subsisted by this disreputable practice, that unless they cease their practice he will, though reluctantly, seek redress through the legal channel. He has, in accordance with the provisions of the laws of the State, delivered to and had recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, the words "FARMERS AND MECHANICS' STORE," as a TRADE MARK, to be used as a sign and designation to his store. The undersigned does not propose to submit to an infringement upon his rights any longer, nor is he for a moment so philanthropic as to quietly allow others to reap the benefit of his labor, and, above all, suffer his customers to be thus imposed upon. He therefore again notifies all persons so using his Trade Mark in the future that he will hold them strictly responsible for the same and prosecute them to the extent of the law, which provides as follows:

"Any person, partnership, firm or corporation that shall use, or cause to be used, any designation or description, the same as or SIMILAR to one so recorded or recorded, [illegible] or profit, shall forfeit to the use of the owner of the name, mark or brand, designation [illegible] or imitated, one-half of the property, goods or articles of trade upon which the same [illegible] the value thereof, to be recovered by the said owner in any court having jurisdiction of [illegible] Code of Oregon, Sec. 3, Chapter xxxiii, Miscellaneous Laws; page 629.

DARKNESS AND DAWN.

Some years ago, while making a brief sojourn in the city of Bristol, I set out one evening with a friend for a stroll through the city. We had visited several places of interest, and were on our return to our hotel, when in passing through a dark and narrow street, a female, closely muffled in a coarse shawl, which, thrown over her head, was drawn around her face, so as to conceal all but her eyes—hurriedly crossed over from the other side of the way and accosted us in accents of despair.

"Gentlemen, for the love of heaven, give me money! My mother is dying of hunger, and I have not wherewith to purchase a morsel of food!"

We were both struck with the tone of her voice, for though agitated by a feeling of desperation, it had a peculiar sweetness, and her language was that of one both educated and refined.

"Do not think me inquisitive," said my friend, in a kindly tone, as he drew forth his purse, "if I ask what misfortune has brought you to this? for it is evident you are no common applicant for charity?"

"Oh! no, sir—no!" she said, shrinking back into herself, as it were; "I never asked for charity before; and though I have not tasted food for two long days, I would sooner perish than ask it for myself now; but I could not see her die, my only friend—oh, I could not see her die!"

"Here," said my companion, placing a sum in her hand which I immediately doubled.

She clutched the money like a miser, and for a moment or two was completely overpowered by her emotions. Then, with a choking effort, she gasped forth:

"Thanks, gentlemen; may Heaven bless you!"

She turned away and took two or three hasty steps, and then, stopping suddenly, she looked around and added:

"You asked what misfortune brought me to this. I shall seem ungrateful if I refuse to tell."

"Never mind," said my friend; "the recital will give you pain, and therefore, I pray you, consider the question unasked."

"Your noble generosity overpowers me, sir," she rejoined, in a tremulous voice, "and my pride shall give way. If you have a few minutes to spare, come with me, and you shall know all."

"Nay," said I; "do not let us intrude upon your sorrows, unless you think we can be of further assistance. You are welcome to the little we have given—it should be doubled if we had more to spare, but we have no right to claim your secret in return."

She buried her face in her shawl and burst into tears.

"Ah!" she sobbed, "if all mankind were thus generous, how many a miserable being might now be happy. Come with me and hear my story. I know I can trust you, and I shall rest easier by having [illegible] convinced you I am no impostor."

We assured her that we did not for a moment doubt of her being the victim of some terrible misfortune, but as we might be of further service to her we would see her safely home, and she could then relate her story or not, as she should think proper.

"Follow me," she said, and set off at a quick walk down the street, we keeping at a respectful distance behind, and I, for one, feeling an unusual curiosity to know something more of her.

At the next corner of the street was an oil lamp, which threw out a dim light; and standing near it, in a listless attitude, we observed a man in the garb of a sailor, and evidently just from sea. As our unknown guide drew near him, I noticed that she seemed much agitated; but on coming up to him, to our surprise, and apparently his, she stopped and looked eagerly into his face for a moment, and then, with a wild cry, she suddenly threw out her arms, clasped him around the neck, and appeared to swoon upon his breast.

"See," said my friend, making an abrupt halt; "we are duped; this is some trick; that girl is an impostor!"

"Impossible!" returned I, unwilling to believe that such grief and misery as she represented could be a base counterfeit. "Listen!"

As I spoke, the sailor, as in great surprise, partly unwound the arms of the female from his neck, raised her head, and gazed first curiously and wildly into her face, which we could see, even from where we stood, was pale and beautiful. The next moment he uttered a loud cry, and quickly throwing his arms around her now lifeless form, he exclaimed:

"Mary! my Mary!"

It seemed to be all that he could utter, as he fairly tottered with his fair burden, and for a few moments we stood dumb with amazement.

"What's this? what's the meaning of this?" he now demanded, looking fiercely at us.

"Well, if this is acting, it is the best I ever saw," muttered my companion, as we hastened forward and gave a hurried account of all that we knew of the affair.

"Merciful Providence! is it possible?" said the man, looking alternately at us and at the fair creature in his arms, and pressing his forehead as to collect his scattered senses. "Mary?" he continued, at short intervals; "my dear wife! my dear wife! And my mother, too! Starving!"

He continued to repeat these expressions like one overpowered by some terrible shock, and who knew not what he was saying; while we stood looking on, too much astonished to think of offering him any assistance.

At length, with a sort of gurgling sigh, the poor creature opened her eyes, and looking wildly and fondly into the manly face of him who supported her, she murmured:

"Charles! Charles! is this you? in life or death—or in a dream?"

I pass over the wild, frantic, passionate exclamations on both sides, as each began to realize the truth—the one that he had found a loving wife in the depth of misery—the other that she had regained a fond husband at the moment of all others when she most needed his aid, counsel, love and support.

"Come," whispered my friend, touching my arm, "let us withdraw; their meeting should be sacred from the intrusion of strangers."

Though deeply curious to know something of their history, I silently acquiesced in his proposal, and quietly departing, we returned to our hotel, musing upon the uncertainties, vicissitudes and romance of life.

Two days after, as I was sitting on the piazza of the hotel, I saw a sailor passing along the street, and curiosity prompted me to address him. The moment he saw me, he came bounding up, grasped my hand, and burst into tears.

"Heaven bless you!" he exclaimed in a choking voice. "Heaven bless you and your friend! and so says Mary. I've been hunting for you all over the city, sir, but I feared I'd never see you again. Here! let me pay you back your money; and you will be so kind, sir, as to accept these two rings for yourself and friend?"

I took the money—for I saw if I did not he would feel very much hurt; but fearing his circumstances might not justify him in making a present of so much value, I attempted to decline the rings. It was of no use—he would take no denial—and so I reluctantly accepted them, thanking him in behalf of my friend, who was absent. I then drew from him his story, which I will give in a few words.

He and his wife were both natives of a small village, and had often played together as children. His own father was in good circumstances, but subsequently lost his property, and died soon after, leaving himself and mother to struggle along as best they might.

Among those believed to be friends in prosperity, but who forsook them in adversity, was the father of his present wife; but though the change of fortune separated the youth and maiden, it only increased an attachment which had been begun in childhood.

For years, however, they did not meet; and during that time the mariner became a sailor and acquired sufficient means to purchase a cottage for his mother, leaving a small balance on mortgage, which his next voyage was to clear off. While at home, he and his Mary again met; and, conscious of a mutual passion, and knowing her parents would not consent to the union, but were most anxious to ally her to a wealthy suitor, they took advantage of an opportunity and were privately married.

Charles Delaine, for such was his name, then took leave of his wife and sailed for a whaling voyage, intending it should be his last cruise. While absent his wife's parents discovered the secret of her marriage, disowned and drove her forth, and she took refuge with his mother.

Together the widowed mother and wife struggled along, both anxiously looking forward for the return of their only friend, but he came not at expected time, the mortgage was foreclosed, the property sold; and almost penniless, they repaired to Bristol, hoping to be able to maintain themselves by the needle.

I need not prolong the story—it is an old tale. Sickness and misfortune followed them, they failed to get sufficient work for their necessities, and on the night when the wife appealed to us, they were in a starving condition. Charles had just returned from his cruise; and at the very moment when his Mary so unexpectedly met him, he was thinking of home, which he expected to reach the next day. He had been prudent, the voyage had been more than usually profitable, and his share, he said, would enable him to start in business.

"Come what will," he continued, "I'll never leave my dear mother and Mary again while we live. They're happy now, thank God! and it will be the aim of my life to keep them so."

He urged me to come and see him and his now happy family, and bring my friend; and then invoking upon us the blessings of heaven, he wrung my hand, and turned quickly away, to conceal the emotions he cared not to display.

"Ah! such is life in this world of selfish and unselfish humanity," mused I, as I watched his retreating footsteps, till a turn in the street concealed him from my view. We never met again.

According to the San Francisco papers cold salt water bath is a sure cure for smallpox, particularly in the cases of Chinamen, as an experiment has proven. A boat which was conveying 16 Chinamen, sick with the smallpox, to a hospital in San Francisco bay, suddenly upset. The Chinamen were thoroughly drenched in cold salt water, and it was a full hour before they could be placed in comfortable quarters. They all got well.

Catching a Citizen.

The proprietor of a Woodward avenue store which had been finely decorated in honor of the Knights of Pythias was at his door yesterday when an old man lounged up and began:

"Such ignorance I never saw in all my life! You see that man across the street there—the one with the white hat on?"

"Yes."

"Well, he was having a good deal to say, and I asked him who Pythias was. Would you believe it, he couldn't answer me?"

"C-c-couldn't he?" stammered the citizen.

"No, sir, he couldn't. Think of such ignorance in this enlightened age! When I told him who Pythias was he called me a liar. Now I want to prove that I'm right. You come over and tell him all about it."

"But, I—I can't leave."

"Then I'll bring him over here."

"No, you needn't—I'm busy."

"I see you are, but when a man calls me a liar I want to prove that I ain't. I'll have him over in a minute."

He hadn't crossed the street before the merchant slid into the store and hurried upstairs to keep out of sight for an hour and it was only after he was certain that the old man had departed that he slipped down and consulted Webster's Dictionary to see if he could find out whether Pythias was a town, a man, or a temple on a hill.—[Detroit Free Press.

An Old Man in Love.

A most sensational breach of promise suit has just been instituted in the Cincinnati courts. It is remarkable on account of the extreme age of the defendant, as well as for the prominence of both parties. The plaintiff is Mrs. Hassaurek, one time the wife of Fred Hassaurek, the well known editor of the Cincinnati Volksblatt. The lady separated from her husband some years ago. The defendant is the Hon Isaac Morton, of Cambridge, a well known Republican politician, and better known as Gov. Morton. He is 89 years old and a widower. In appearance he is anything but prepossing. He probably was a good looking man sixty years ago, but old age has sadly changed him, if such was the case. He is tall, has all the gross obesity which comes with age, and will weigh probably 225 pounds. With bleared eyes, flabby double chin, and cheeks with deep wrinkles, and hollows under the eyes, and a heavy body that he can hardly move with the strength of declining years, Gov. Morton is hardly the person any woman, young or old, would become desperately enamored of.

He became acquainted with Mrs. Hassaurek, it seems, two years ago, and seems to have fallen desperately in love with her. Her letters, which will be produced in court, contain protestations the strongest, and expressed in language that would have done credit to a dizzy youth just experiencing his first sensations of happy love. He seems to be interested at all times in the "business" of Mrs. Hassaurek. The "business" that the Governor expressed himself so deeply interested in, in this and other matters, was the obtaining of a divorce Mrs. Hassaurek from her husband, Fred Hassaurek. Her letters will show the gallant and amorous pursuit of this old lover, bordering on the verge of the grave, made of Mrs. Hassaurek. He slyly, with all the skill and wit of a divorce lawyer, prevailed on Mrs. Hassaurek to seek in the court separation from her husband, holding out to her a promise of marriage. His vanity was displayed in everything he did, and is seen in all of his letters. Young girls, discovering his weakness, prodded him on and flattered the old fellow until he thought himself a prize for any woman.

Now that he repudiates all, and withdraws all promises, Mrs. Hassaurek, who, perhaps not out of a feeling of love, but from a misrepresentation of the standing, wealth and ability of Governor Morton, was led to make promises to him that she intended to keep, can find no recourse but in the courts.

The hoary hero of this romance seems to have been a most persistent lover. He addressed the lady as "My darling sweetheart cricket," and his letters are filled with the most lover-like slush imaginable. It is difficult in reading them to conceive that they were written by an old man tottering on the brink of the grave. It seems that, in addition to his protestations of undying love, he represented himself as the possessor of great wealth and influence. What so suddenly cooled his ardor and led to the instituting of the suit does not clearly appear.

The Perils of Royalty.

Most wretched indeed must be the life of the Czar, if even a tithe of the stories related by usually trustworthy St. Petersburg correspondents may be credited. In the harbor at Peterhof all the vessels have, it is said, frequently been alarmed and searched three times in a single night. While the imperial yachts are constantly kept with anchors weighed and steamed up, to facilitate the instantaneous flight of the Romanoff family if occasion demanded. And the belief is current that the Czar has ordered all his movable property of every sort to be moved and safely lodged in some foreign land. Meanwhile the Boyar aristocracy, zealous adherents of the Romanoff throne, unceasingly urge the necessity of immediate coronation. This ceremony, they say, would allay the uneasiness in the provinces, stop disaffection in the army and navy, add greatly to the Emperor's prestige among the masses, who will regard his authority as having thus received the stamp of divine recognition. So impressed is Alexander by these arguments, it is said, that he is secretly preparing for a sudden coronation, either in the Kasan cathedral, St. Petersburg, or in the palace chapel, Peterhof, the announcements regarding a coronation at Moscow being merely to throw the Nihilists off the track. The reception of almost endless congratulatory deputations after the coronation is also a source of terror to the Czar, and it is reported that these will be postponed until a safe place and time can be found.

Solemn Thoughts.

"Be jabers," said Patrick O'Rafferty, as he was reading about a case of suicide; "be jabers, if iver I take me own life it will be wid chloroform."

"Nivir do the loike of that, Pat," said Mrs. O'Rafferty, "for yer inimies will bring it up agin ye aftherward as long as ye live."

"I know all that, but little I'll care. It's the best way to doi, for ye see, Mrs. O'Rafferty, ye just doze off, and you don't aven know ye are dead till yer wake up, and rade about it in the papers."

"That's thrue," said Mrs. O'Rafferty, solemnly, and the subject was dropped.

The navigation of Lake Baikal, is difficult and dangerous on account of the heavy winds that sweep across it, and the rocky, precipitous character of its shores. It is also liable to sudden calms broken up by severe gales; during the former, ships may drift shoreward and then be dashed to pieces upon the rocks upon the rising of the latter. The people showed their thorough appreciation of these dangers of navigation by saying that it is only upon Lake Baikal in the autumn that a man learns to pray from his heart.—[Roughing it on the Russian Frontier.

"That verse of Gray about the unknown Village Hampden, and the 'Cromwell guiltless of his country's blood' is elegantly turned and specious, but untrue. When Heaven goes to the trouble of creating a genius means are provided for its most fitting evolution. Flowers do often 'blush unseen and waste their sweetness on the desert air.' But they are not geniuses. The man or woman of genius is in the nature of sunshine and cannot help brightening this world of ours."—London Saturday Review.

It is worth a fortune to any one, for his examinations are really wonderful and give unbounded satisfaction to all.

DR. PERRY PRATT

The great American Herb Phenomenon. Men, women and children, if you are suffering go and see him.

HERBALISM

Is the oldest and grandest system of medical treatment in the world. It is the application of nature's simplest remedies for the removal of disorders set on by artificial life. It came in with Adam, and will go out with the last man. "And the fruit thereof shall be for meat and the leaf thereof shall be for medicine."—Ezekiel 47th chapter 12th verse. When universally practised in this and other countries there was small loss of life and men lived as a rule their allotted time and even far beyond. Mercury and the Lancet causes more deaths in quiet sick beds than the sword and cannon on the field of battle. Reaction is taking place and common sense is asserting itself in the minds and conduct of the people, and the clever and accomplished herbalist becomes again the doctor for the million.

Asthma, Catarrh and Lung troubles cured by Dr. Perry Pratt astonished the best doctors in London and Paris, and yet he uses nothing but simple herbs. There is a disease which produces pains about the body that thousands of people treat for Rheumatism but are never cured. The pains occur about any part of the body, but are most apt to occur in one of the hip joints passing down the sciatic nerve; it is often called Sciatic Rheumatism. This disease affects the heart and the entire nerve system and is wasting and debilitating to the entire body. There is an absolute cure for this disease and those who may suffer in this respect will be informed of the cause of it and of its presence by an examination by Dr. Pratt, who on an examination of the action of the heart will point out the disease without asking a question.

The Careers of the Wildest of Them—Lola Montez and Ada Isaacs Menken

Lola Montez was ... brilliant ... its of moral ... only ... face ... expression ... She ... as a ... Paris and ... Ludwig ... back and ... blv in running ... of ... people who ... not expelled from the kingdom ... pride and ambition ... came ... fo lish ... and ... mands ... with Lola ... of years of success as an actress followed the star ... in its west ... United States as an actress and a lecturess ... male money and was popular ... and ceased ... was ... by every one who could ... and finally in a New York second rate ... ing house just ... of her life a drama ... church yard she now lies with the simple inscription Elizabeth G ... died in New York aged 41 years to mark her resting place. Adah Isaacs Menken ... socially ... than Montez. Menken was a ... of rare beauty and exceedingly brilliant ... intellect. She was a rattle brained good hearted adventuress giving to mankind what was meant for an individual party, to wit a husband—and if she sinned greatly may be forgiven for she loved much. She accomplished her stage popularity more by reason of a beautiful face and marvelously symmetrical figure than from stage ability. She married John C Heenan the prize fighter first then ... Orpheus C Kerr fell into her arms and they were married. He truly loved her and she went back on him going to Europe with a California gambler named Barker. It was her boast when on the continent a favorite with such men as Charles Dickens Alexander Dumas Theophile Gautier and Charles Swinburne that she began with a prize fighter but would end with a prince and she came within an inch of roping in one of the noble blood of the crown of France but for parental interference. The Adah Isaacs Menken who all but entirely naked rode strapped to the horse in Mazeppa and the brilliant beautiful conversationalist for whose book Dickens wrote the preface and to whom the brain and pride of Europe paid court were much alike—both very fast and faithless. She found her destroyer in herself, and died from too much of herself. She said that her soul would go to heaven through the gates of Paris but as her soul would never have left its gay salon if she could prevent it it is doubtful if her prophecy is fulfilled. The monument erected over her grave was put up as George Butler once told us, by a set of half famished Parisian Bohemians and is probably unpaid for to this day. The vast meaning of its epitaph "Thou knowest" probably is best understood by the stonecutter. Ada Clare was perhaps the most thorough of our native Bohemians and as the associate of Fitz James O Brien George Arnold Artemus Ward Ned Wilkins Henry Clapp Jr Mortimer Thompson and the others of that Gotham journalist gang who could not eat a breakfast on less than a dozen cocktails was entitled the queen of Bohemia. Ada was from the south born wealthy but with a bad streak somewhere in her which evinced itself in her coming north and joining in those carousals at Pfaff's and the Maison Doree where those sweet-scented shrubs held forth. She was a hail fellow well met with all and thought nothing of running off on a jaunt for a week or a month with any of them. Her intensely eager nervous clear cut face and heavy blonde hair always attracted the attention of Broadway to her and there quaffing champagne at the Doree or beer at Pfaff's she was wholly indifferent to all criticism. Her end was trouble. She outlived all her old associates and but three years ago died from hydrophobia the result of a bite of a pet dog. Ada was the best of the lot of bas rouge s for she was a fool and so too good hearted to give any one much pain of heart.

TWO NEW COMIC OPERAS.

Gilbert and Sullivan's last Production and Planquette's "Rip Van Winkle," soon to be Given in New York.

From the New York World

Miss Helen Lenoir who has been managing Mr D Oyly Carte's recent tours in England returned to New York to make arrangements for the production of several new operas by one or more of Mr D Oyly Carte's companies. Miss Lenoir said to a reporter when asked whether Gilbert and Sullivan's new opera was included in the repertory: Yes it will ... produced at the Standard theater about the 16th of November. By the way it is not called The Princess as currently reported. It has not yet been christened. Mr Gilbert has completed the libretto but the music is not yet finished. Mr Sullivan has ... himself in some out of the way place in Switzerland that he may escape the distractions ... and devote all his energies to the completion of this task.

Can you give a description of the opera?

I don't mind giving you a glimpse of it but as the work ... Mr Sullivan will not ... to much of it. Of course it has not yet been ... but I have ... As in all Mr Gilbert's ... operas there is ... plot. The hero ... of the piece is named Strephon. His mother ... from ... age. She always ... Strephon ... fairy only from the waist down. Strephon ... of course has ... of his mother ... pal characters ...

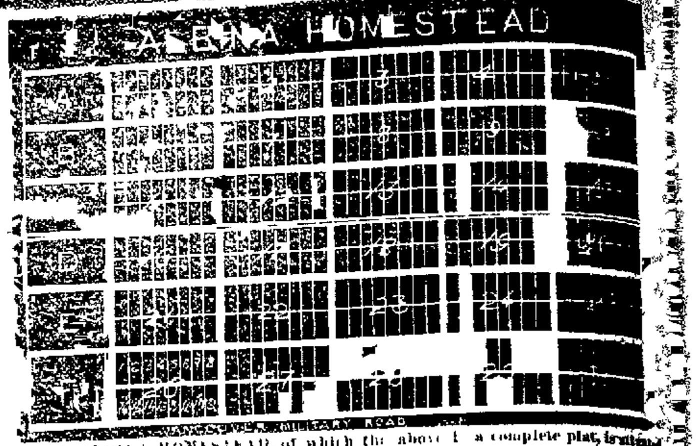
THE ALBINA HOMESTEAD



THE ALBINA HOMESTEAD, of which the above is a complete plat, is situated next to Albina and between and fronting on both the extension of Fourth street, East Portland, and the Vancouver road. All the lots in Blocks 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30 are 40x120 feet, with twenty foot alleys through the blocks. All the other lots are 50x100 feet. The streets are wide and have all been cleared while the lots are high and level and can be very easily cleared.

We now offer for sale for a short time a limited number of these Lots and Blocks at reasonable prices and on easy terms.

THE ALBINA HOMESTEAD is unquestionably the best field for investment and the most desirable place or location now in the market. Its close proximity to the cities of Portland and East Portland and to the heavy improvements now being carried out by the various companies under the direction of Mr. Villard—the ... Docks, Elevators, Machine Shops and other works of these companies—its nearness also to the Albina Ferry, together with the proposed Street Railway from ... Ferry, in East Portland will make this property very accessible from all parts of these cities. These advantages will necessarily attract a large population, and in the meantime make this the most popular and valuable suburban property in the vicinity, while in the near future it must furnish homes for the rapidly increasing population of Albina, and then its value will be at least five times what we now ask for it. We will show the property and give full information to all who may apply to us personally, and inquiries addressed to us by mail will receive prompt attention.
